FEST FESTERS — A concessionaire at the European Fall Fest awaits the crowds that never showed up for the event which struggled through three of the planned four days before collapsing in disarray. This was the scene at Marin County Fairgrounds at about 2 p.m. Saturday, the second day. Exhibitors complained the thing wasn't European and wasn't festive. But then, it wasn't fall, either.

Disastrous Fall Fest Folds Early

The "first annual" European Fall Fest made its disastrous debut this weekend at the Marin Civic Center — in such privacy that it folded one day early.

Only a few hundred patrons showed up each day, including Friday night's opening, and disgruntled concessionaires pulled out last night. Lured by promises of heavy crowds, they unsuccessfully demanded their money back from the promoters.

A spokesman for one booth, set up by Aquarium Beautiful of San Rafael, said only one dog leash was sold in two and a half days. The experience cost several hundred dollars, plus $195 paid to the promoters, European Festivals Ltd.

Jeanne Lezzine, an employee at the store, said today that the concessionaires will take the promoters to court to get back their money. "It was one big ripoff," she declared, explaining, "there was nothing to attract the people."

Leon G. Kalimos, executive director of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building and Grounds, said the county makes no effort to screen promoters who rent the facilities. "As a public facility, this (screening) is difficult," he said.

Kalimos stressed that the county was paid its $3,500 rent in advance. The county was not involved in the contracts between the promoters and the concessionaires, he added.

The promoters, Frank Gabrich and Hal Nelson, both of Downey, Los Angeles County, could not be reached today for comment on the complaints by concessionaires.

Plagued by a missing carnival, missing exhibitors and missing crowds, the fair languished at its dusty site Saturday afternoon, contrasting sharply with the bustling Renaissance Pleasure Faire 10 miles north at Black Point in Novato.

"Who knows the reason why?" said Gabrich. "Maybe this is a bad time of year, with the county fair and the Renaissance fair going on. We did everything we could to get people here."

As Gabrich talked to a reporter, six persons stopped by the office and got their money back. "It's a total ripoff," said one. "There isn't anything European out there."

Of approximately 40 booths (the fair advertised over 100), only eight had even tenuous European connections. A booth displaying three Peugeots sufficed for the advertised "European car and cycle extravaganza."

Paul M. Eisen of San Francisco said, "If I were a customer paying $2, I would be furious." As an exhibitor paying $195 for a booth, he was furious, since he hadn't sold a single thing by Saturday afternoon.

"This was sold to us as a European marketplace," he said, "but the only European things here are a sausage shop and a U.S. Army recruiter trying to sign people up for Europe."

Eisen runs a shop in San Francisco selling imported European sculpture and prints.

Some booths sold American handicrafts (leather goods, redwood burl tables). Others were operated by commercial firms selling hearing aids, encyclopedias, organs or massage chairs.

One father of a family of six, who asked not to be identified, complained "there's nothing here for the kids." Indeed, a carnival which was planned did not show up, and after calling, fair officials discovered it had not shown up at its previous engagement, either.

Gabrich said he tried to get a last-minute replacement, but couldn't. He also said that "about a dozen exhibitors," including some European consulates and airlines flying to Europe, decided at the last minute not to man their booths.

Ford Backs Urban Transit, Within Bounds Of Budget

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — President Ford said today the federal government has a "legitimate and major role" to play in assisting urban transit systems, but federal taxpayers "just can't afford to pay for the whole package."

In an address prepared for the sixth International Conference on Urban Transportation, Ford said he supports using a limited portion of federal transit funds for mass transit operating expenses under the $11 billion House-passed bill.

"I am convinced that with enough imagination, with enough determination, and with a very careful ordering of our priorities, we can achieve our national transportation goal," he said. "And I am determined that we do so without further feeding the fires of inflation by busting the federal budget."

Ford flew to Pittsburgh for a quick trip, leaving a capital boiling with the surprise of his controversial decision to grant former President Richard Nixon an unconditional pardon.

Ford's press secretary, J.F. terHorst, resigned in protest of the pardon decision as a "matter of conscience" and also apparently because he was "misled" by other White House officials about whether Ford was contemplating the move.

"There is a legitimate and major role to be played by the federal government in assisting urban transit systems," said Ford. "But that role must be carried out in partnership with states and localities."

"We will help with urban planning and with transit technology development," Ford told the gathering. "Yet, it should

Some Would Reopen Nixon's Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pardon of former President Nixon prompted some House Judiciary Committee members today to suggest reopening the impeachment process that was halted last month when he resigned from office.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said the committee's inquiry should be revived so that Nixon could be called as a witness in the interest of "completing the record of Richard Nixon's abuse of the presidency."

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said the leadership of the committee and the full House should hold a meeting immediately to determine whether to resume the impeachment process. He added that the committee "should at least consider moving ahead on our subpoenas" for Watergate tapes, which Nixon previously ignored.

Waldie said he would consider bringing the matter before the full House if Rodino rejected his proposal to reopen the inquiry.

Ford Postpones Amnesty Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has postponed indefinitely his expected announcement on a plan for conditional amnesty for draft evaders and military deserters, a White House spokesman said today.

John W. Hushen, deputy White House press secretary, said events of the past week — meaning Ford's pardon of former President Nixon — have not allowed the President to focus on the question of amnesty for war resisters.

Asked if the Nixon pardon was "more urgent" than the question of amnesty, Hushen said: "That seems a conclusion you can draw."

Nixon Pardon Draws Storms Of Protest

Ford Action Is Likely To End The 'Honeymoon'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford says he pardoned Richard M. Nixon as an act of mercy and to bind the nation's wounds, but the reaction showed few wounds had healed and the Watergate controversy was back in the White House. (See also other stories, page 14, and texts of President Ford's proclamation, Richard Nixon's statement regarding the pardon, page 30.)

Ford's surprise statement said he wanted to write a conclusion to the Watergate tragedy.

His friend and press secretary, J.F. terHorst, resigned as "a matter of conscience," and representatives and senators had strong reactions almost certain to end his "honeymoon" with Congress.

Ford signed the document at noon yesterday. It was a "full, free and absolute pardon unto Richard Nixon for all offenses against the United States for all offenses against the United States which he, Richard Nixon, has committed or may have committed or taken part in during the period from Jan. 20, 1969 through Aug. 9, 1974."

In San Clemente, Nixon accepted the pardon, saying, "No words can describe the depth of my regret and pain at the anguish my mistakes over Watergate have caused the nation and the presidency."

He said he was wrong in not acting "more decisively and more forthrightly" but the former President did not admit breaking the law.

White House officials denied that there had been a deal.

"I know there was none," said L. William Seidman, a close Ford friend from Grand Rapids. But the Chicago Tribune said today there had been a "six-part package" depending on Nixon's statement.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski now will not be able to seek an indictment against Nixon. Six months ago, a grand jury had voted 19-0 to call Nixon a co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up, but he was not indicted.

Legal sources said it might help Nixon's six aides who face trial Sept. 30 for the Watergate cover-up. As one said, "I think you can't escape the fact that the No. 1 man among the team of top people at the White House got away free."

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., called it "the only decent and prudent course."

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., complained that Nixon was being granted "a pardon while his subordinates are being sent off to prison."

Ford had told a news conference last Wednesday that a pardon for Nixon would be "untimely and unwise" before any charges had actually been brought.

His old law partner and legal counsel, Philip Buchen, told reporters yesterday that the President apparently made the decision sometime last week.

Buchen said he checked with Jaworski and found there were "no time bombs" in the form of new charges.

Last Thursday, Ford authorized Washington lawyer Benton Becker to go to San Clemente and, Buchen said, "to advise the former President that President Ford was intending to give a pardon."

Becker, according to the counsel, brought word of Nixon's plan to issue a statement, but the wording was left open. Buchen said he considers Nixon's statement "an act of contrition."

Ford had deliberately chosen yesterday for his statement.

I-J FORUM

Divided Reaction On Nixon Pardon

Marin and Southern Sonoma citizens are much more divided in reactions to President Gerald Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon than they were to the news of Nixon's resignation a few weeks ago.

The reactions ranged from "it's fine" to "it's Ford's first mistake." Some Marinites said they believe "Nixon suffered enough" while others urged that he be prosecuted along with lower-ranking White House personages.

Independent-Journal reporters today took a random telephone poll of local reactions, asking each respondent, "What is your reaction to President Ford pardoning President Nixon?"

Both State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, and Rep. John L. Burton, D-Sixth District, criticized the pardon as unequal justice.

"It is an outrageous travesty on justice," Burton said. "It can only serve to deepen the disillusionment that many people have with our government and its institutions. It is incredible to have such a sweeping pardon for any and all possible acts, and sets up a double standard of justice that is beyond comprehension."

Behr said, "I cannot agree with his timing or the results of it in terms of how I understand justice to be properly defined under our system of law. The law is not a matter of who is who, but who has done what. Equal justice is a right, and cannot become a special privilege."

Other Marin residents split 14 against the pardon to 12 in favor, giving these responses to the I-J Forum question:

Marie Woelfl, in her 60s, retired school secretary, 19 Glen Avenue, San Rafael — "If I'd been a presidential adviser, I'd have said no pardon, but let the courts and jury decide. I'm in favor of a pardon to the extent of compassion, but the subordinates not only have lost their jobs but have been prosecuted and sentenced, so Nixon should be open to prosecution. Otherwise our future generations may recognize that the little fish get caught but the big fish get away."

Connie James, 30, housewife, of Canyon Road, Ross — "I have mixed emotions... my first reaction was that I disliked it violently... and felt he should get his like the rest. But in thinking about it, maybe President Ford is trying to get it (Watergate) out of the way. Maybe he has done us a favor."

Florence M. Jenkins, 63, retired, 121 Kent Avenue, Kentfield — "We were unprepared for it when we heard it yesterday and are pretty much against it today. How do you justify pardoning him and prosecuting the others involved?"

Margaret Jones, housewife, of 351 Olema Drive, Fairfax — "I think the whole thing was set up before Ford went into office. I'm against it 100 per cent. But I think if they are going to pardon Nixon they should pardon all his stooges."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Argentina's Peronists Split Up

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina's Peronist movement divided into two opposing camps over the weekend with an announcement by young leftists that they are going underground to fight the government they helped bring to power.

The break posed new problems for President Maria Estela (Isabel) Peron, who took over from her husband, the founder of the movement, on his death July 1. She was already hard put to put an end to the urban and rural guerrilla activities of the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), a Marxist group, and several smaller outlaw bands.

Mario Firmenich, leader of the Montonero guerrillas formed four years ago to fight for Peron's return from exile, announced Friday his group is going back to the clandestine operations of its early days. Six other groups from the leftist youth wing of Peronism joined the Montoneros in the move.

Upset Settlers Nursing Home Fire

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI) — Dissident white settlers who tried to seize control of this Portuguese colony during the weekend dropped demands for immediate independence today and called for a meeting with the Lisbon government and black freedom fighters.

The whites were rebelling against an agreement between Portugal and the black liberation movement granting black majority rule and independence next year.

Secret Viet Talks

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu has launched a secret campaign to negotiate a peace pact with the Communists to replace the faltering accord that extricated the United States from Vietnam, diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said Thieu has sent two top aides to Indonesia with orders to try to negotiate a true peace agreement by the end of 1974.

Nuclear Promise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department wants India to promise it will use U.S. uranium to produce electricity for Bombay — not nuclear explosions. The United States may exercise a "veto" over further shipments if India does not agree.

However, Dixy Lee Ray, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission denied a report yesterday that shipments have already been stopped until the Indian government clarifies its policy on nuclear tests.

Tropical Storm

MIAMI (UPI) — A tropical depression which may become Tropical Storm Elaine, fifth of the season, today appeared to be slowing its forward speed and gaining some strength. It was located in the Atlantic Ocean about 500 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Fla.

India Warned

HONG KONG (UPI) — China, angered by India's move to absorb the tiny Himalayan buffer state of Sikkim, warned yesterday the action would not go "without punishment."

The warning came in an article published by the Chinese Communist party newspaper, People's Daily. The New China News Agency transmitted excerpts from the article, entitled, "India is beside itself with glee — but too soon."

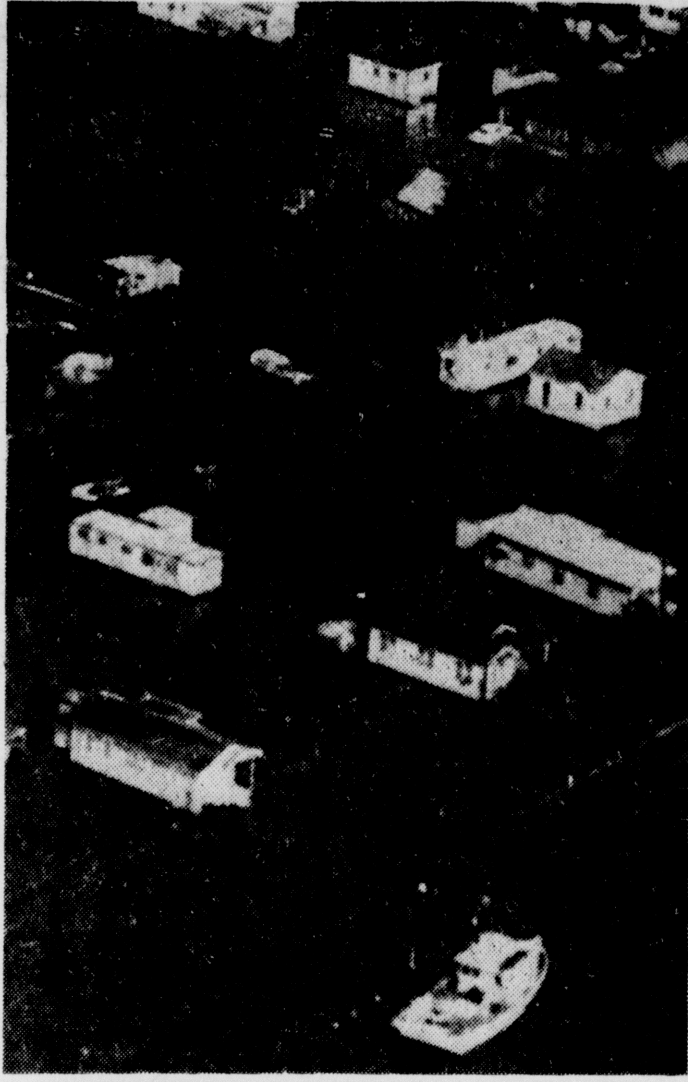

It was the second time in less than a week that the party paper published an article strongly attacking the Indian parliament's ratification of a constitutional amendment to absorb Sikkim into the Indian union.

Synthetic Pot Use

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Synthetic derivatives of marijuana appear useful as antinarcotic agents, tranquilizers and pain killers, a panel of chemists reported today.

All of the experimental drugs are patterned after marijuana but contain major modifications to its active ingredients.

Dr. Louis S. Harris, of the Medical College of Virginia, said tests with rats and mice during the past 18 months have shown that some of these synthetic compounds were able to reduce the development of physical dependence to morphine in rats.

STORM DAMAGE — Bayou Lafourche, which runs from the Mississippi River just south of Baton Rouge, La., into the Gulf of Mexico, overflowed its banks when Hurricane Carmen hit the Louisiana coast and flooded several communities. Water was up to a foot deep in some homes in Golden Meadow, Galliano and Cutoff.

Sugar Crop Heavily Damaged By Carmen

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Hurricane Carmen smashed into the lush sugar fields of Louisiana this weekend and destroyed most of the crop before it wound down to a 35-mile-an-hour rainstorm drifting across Texas.

Gov. Edwin Edwards toured the stricken area yesterday and estimated crop-related losses alone at $400 million. One death was attributed to the storm.

"What's doubly bad about this is that this particular crop was badly needed for the sugar of our country," Edwards said.

"The farmers were all looking at this year and all of a sudden this hurricane comes and dashes their dreams," the governor said.

As he spoke children paddled their canoes up and down the flooded road separating Bayou Lafourche from their homes.

The governor said a presidential disaster declaration could be beneficial to homeowners and businessmen but not to sugar cane growers.

"The main damage seems to be to the sugar cane crop," he said. "It looks like 75 per cent of it is damaged beyond repair which means an economic loss to the farmers of about $100 million."

"This is multiplied by four times to get the impact to the total economy."

27 Thought Dead In Plane Crash

JAKARTA (UPI) — Officials of Garuda Airlines said today they believed all 27 persons killed in the crash of an F27 passenger plane in south Sumatra Saturday were Indonesians.

Another seven persons were injured in the crash.

Earlier airline sources said they believed there was one American aboard. All of the victims still have not been identified but a Garuda official said, "we now think there were no foreigners on the plane."

Smog Device Makers Are Unhappy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Manufacturers of a $35 car anti-smog device required on used cars are upset at the legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan because their potential market has been cut in half.

Although they stood to make millions of dollars, manufacturers protested they invested millions in anti-smog devices only to see the statewide installation program virtually eliminated before it got off the ground.

A bill, passed in the closing minutes of the 1973-74 legislature and signed last week by Reagan, eliminated the requirement that 1966-70 automobiles, except those in the South Coast Basin, be equipped with the anti-pollution device.

"We figured we got burned," said Floyd Wheeler, marketing director of STP's California Hardware Division. He said his company worked in "good faith" with the state and the Air Resources Board to "gear" production with the implementation of the program.

"Then they pulled the rod," Wheeler said referring to the discontinuance of the program except in the Basin counties of Los Angeles, Riverside, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Orange and San Bernardino.

There are 1.5 million to 2 million 1966-70 cars in the population basin. In the other 52 counties, there are about the same number.

The law goes into effect Jan. 1, but the state Air Resources Board will meet Wednesday in San Francisco to determine if it has the authority to roll back Carmen whirled off the Louisiana coast in the Gulf of Mexico virtually stalled for hours Saturday night before chugging ashore about sunrise yesterday. Its gusty, 180 m.p.h. winds weakened immediately over the marshy coastland but flooding rains fell for hours.

An estimated 100,000 persons from Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi fled inland ahead of the storm. A utility company repairman was electrocuted yesterday in Louisiana while working on a power line.

The majority of the refugees returned to their homes today.

"It looks like everything is coming along beautifully," said Roy Barrios, Civil Defense director of Galliano, La.

"We stuck our neck out to help the state," Selvidge said. "We are not happy with the decreased market."

"We are still searching the area for other bodies and debris from the crash and whatever items we can find which can help with the investigation of the disaster," Kefaloyannis said.

Athens airport officials discounted earlier reports that life rafts had been spotted in the choppy waters of the Ionian Sea between Greece and Italy where the plane went down.

The officials said the plane plunged into the sea late yesterday morning soon after a stopover in Athens. The pilot reported trouble and said he was trying to land on the Greek island of Corfu.

TWA reported 79 passengers and nine crew members aboard Flight 841, which was also scheduled to stop in Rome on the flight from Israel to the United States.

A spokesman said 23 of the passengers gave the airline U.S. addresses, but it was uncertain whether all were Americans. He said 34 passengers, including two infants, were traveling to New York.

An air traffic controller said the pilot reported trouble in his last radio contact with Athens airport. "He then said he would try to make it to Corfu because one engine was on fire," he said.

Camp For Jews Will Be Moved

VIENNA (UPI) — City authorities said today they would relocate a Red Cross transit camp for Soviet Jews emigrating to Israel following protests from residents of Simmering, a suburb of Vienna.

"We will definitely continue to give aid and shelter to Jewish emigrants, but we will move the transit camp to a safer place to minimize the risk for the population," Mayor Leopold Gratz said.

Residents of Simmering expressed fears that Arab guerrillas might attack the camp and endanger neighboring families.

All Feared Dead In Airline Crash

ATHENS (UPI) — Searchers from the U.S. aircraft carrier Independence and Greek ships gave up hope today for all 88 persons aboard a crippled Trans World Airlines 707 jetliner that crashed yesterday in the Ionian Sea.

"We don't expect to find any survivors," said Ammanuel Kefaloyannis, Greek deputy minister of transportation in charge of civil aviation who was in charge of all search efforts.

Kefaloyannis said that 19 bodies were recovered as of mid-morning by the Independence and nine Greek ships. The bodies will be flown to Athens tomorrow for autopsies. Strong winds prevented helicopters from the Independence from picking up the bodies today from other recovery vessels.

A maverick Arab guerrilla group said in Beirut a commando on a death mission bombed the Boeing 707, but the major Palestinian organization denied involvement by any recognized guerrilla band. Autopsies would indicate if the victims died in an explosion or the crash.

"We are still searching the area for other bodies and debris from the crash and whatever items we can find which can help with the investigation of the disaster," Kefaloyannis said.

I-J FORUM

Divided Reaction On Nixon Pardon

Jorie Parr, 45, radio broadcaster, 220 Canal Street, San Rafael — "This seems like President Ford's Bay of Pigs to me. This is Ford's mistake early in his administration — let's hope that it is the low point, and that things will pick up from here."

Michael T. Long, 44, insurance executive, 433 Sylvia Way, San Rafael — "I think it was a mistake. It was something that should have at least been put off for a while. I don't like to see him persecuted, but I also don't think that others should be put in jail while Nixon is let off. My understanding is that the investigation is still going on — it might have been acceptable at a later time, but not now."

Paul Buck, 25, food clerk, 54 Corte Lenosa, Greenbrae — "I'm terribly disappointed because it seemed that Congress and President Ford had such a good relationship, and I think this action might spoil it. I also feel that he put a double standard on justice — it wasn't the right thing to do."

Dorothy Wells, 55, housewife, 210 Lower Via Casitas, Greenbrae — "I felt that he should have been tried and then pardoned. We have to know what he is guilty of. We should also get the complete details of Watergate. I just don't think we'll get the whole story now."

Janet Peacock, 32, freelance writer, 355 Cedar Road, Bolinas — "I have a mixed reaction. One, is that I'm shocked at what I consider to be the inequalities of justice. All the Nixon henchmen got the ax, but Nixon goes free. But I'm also relieved that it's all over with. If Nixon is free, his assistants should be set free, too."

Judith Donovan, 39, homemaker, 28 La Loma Court, San Rafael — "I think it was good timing, on a Sunday morning. I'm agreeable to it."

Russell L. Givin, 32, teacher, 21 Skylark Lane, Larkspur — "The crimes we think he committed probably demand prosecution, but you have to weigh the effect on the country versus the effect on the man. I would prefer to consider the country first, so I think it best that Ford did what he did."

Lynn Thrall, 22, student, 215 Sunset Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base — "I really admire Ford for that. I think it saves a lot of turmoil by not going to trial. I like the fact that Ford is standing up and saying it's his responsibility."

Ray Wood, 35, real estate broker, 55 Broadway, Fairfax — "It (Nixon's prosecution) should have been dealt with like he was anyone else. He's an individual like the rest of us. That's the opinion of a lot of people I've talked to. A lot of people are very disappointed."

Ron Sabaca, 32, service station owner, 69 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael — "I think under the circumstances and for the good of the country, it office, that shouldn't cover them. This decision may pave the way for Watergate to happen again."

Vaughn Burlingame, 54, realtor, 16 Central Avenue, Sausalito — "We have spent enough time on Watergate. It's time to get it behind us. This was the best move for the country."

Peter Evans, 44, librarian, Crescent Avenue, Bolinas — "I think it was the right thing to do. There's no sense keeping the issue alive any longer than necessary. Even though Nixon obviously committed crimes, his punishment has been sufficient."

Mark B. Mayer Jr., 34, contractor, 240 Glen Drive, Sausalito — "I was shocked. I wish he hadn't done it. If I had a parking ticket they would put me in jail if I didn't pay it. I don't think it was right."

Charles Peterson, 59, retired Army colonel, 708 Butternut Drive, Terra Linda — "I'm all for it. This might help us get back together. Perhaps this is the best way out."

Mrs. Russell Schabel, 45, housewife, 320 Hidden Valley Road, San Anselmo — "It's poor timing, and we're Republicans. We just think it should have been investigated out a little bit more. We still believe in equal justice for everyone."

Mrs. Basil Lippi, retired office worker, 10 Acacia Road, Fairfax — "It's okay with me. The guy went through enough I think. Why don't they leave him alone?"

Mrs. John W. Knebel, 51, housewife, 212 Caribe Isle, Novato — "I think everyone should be punished, but for our European and Asian friends we have had enough bad publicity, and it should stop right here. I think Ford did just right."

Russell Martini, 57, real estate salesman, 600 Manuel T. Freitas Parkway, San Rafael — "Very, very favorable. Very humane. He was a victim of circumstances, doing his job and doing it for the betterment of mankind."

Herbert B. Marsh, 55, insurance consultant, 23 Capilano Drive, Novato — "It's fine. He's gone through enough, both he and his family. There's been enough humiliation."

Wilhelmina Klutz, nursing aide, 308 Tenth Street, Petaluma — "To me this was kind of a funny thing. I didn't think the President had a right to pardon him because he hadn't really been found guilty of anything. I myself don't think he was guilty — he was a scapegoat for a bunch of people from both parties."

Lois Kula, 50, retired saleswoman, 630 South McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma — "We don't think he should have been pardoned. He's done the crime and he's committed himself — he should go along with the rest of those guys (Watergate defendants now being prosecuted)."

Sylvia C. Thomas, 40, homemaker, 410 East Railroad Avenue, Cotati — "I don't think it sets a good precedent. Just because someone holds a high

13 States Will Have Primaries Tomorrow

Primary elections in New York, Florida, Colorado, Maryland and the District of Columbia will dominate balloting tomorrow when voters choose party candidates for congressional, state and local offices. New York has a pair of con-

Instead of services at the seminary near his old home in Alexandria, he went to holy communion at St. John's church, where Presidents since James Madison have worshipped.

As he came out, a reporter asked what he would be doing the rest of the day.

"You'll find out shortly," he answered.

The White House press office was already summoning reporters and telling them, off the record, of an important announcement.

The ground rules were strict: no questions, no photos or film before or after Ford gave the announcement from his desk in the Oval Office. The American people saw a solemn, formal President sign the pardon for his predecessor.

He had not told his wife, Betty, of his decision. Through an aide, she later said Ford "gave a great deal of thought" to a pardon.

His statement was full of references to prayer and conscience, to the tragedy of Nixon and his family, to the Watergate allegations that "hang like a sword over our former President's head, threatening his health as he tries to reshape his life."

Buchen said Jaworski had predicted a Nixon trial could not begin for at least nine months.

"I am compelled to conclude that many months and perhaps more years will have to pass before Richard Nixon would obtain a fair trial," Ford said.

"During this long period of delay and potential litigation, ugly passions would again be aroused. And our people would again be polarized in their opinions."

"And the credibility of our free institutions of government would again be challenged at home and abroad."

Ford said he was not relying on public opinion polls — such as the Gallup Poll conducted for Newsweek which indicated that 58 per cent of a telephone sample were opposed to granting Nixon amnesty and 33 per cent favored a pardon.

"I do believe, with all my heart and mind and spirit, that I, not as President, but as a humble servant of God, will receive justice without mercy if I fail to show mercy."

Then Ford went to play golf as the White House switchboard began ringing with "angry calls, heavy and constant," of those opposed to a pardon.

At his vice presidential nomination hearings he had been asked about pardon and predicted "the country wouldn't stand for it."

Many Republicans supported the move, but some joined Democrats who said the action was unwise, unequal justice instead of the equal treatment Ford said he was seeking.

One Capitol Hill Republican said: "Ford knows full well that by doing this he's blown his honeymoon up."

As he resigned, terHorst said he could not "credibly defend" Nixon's pardon "in the absence of pardons for those who evaded the Vietnam war in good conscience and former Nixon aides who have suffered under the same Watergate" troubles.

tested Democratic primaries. The warmest pits Howard Samuels, former chief of New York City's Off Track Betting system, against Rep. Hugh Carey for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The winner will face Gov. Malcolm Wilson, the unopposed Republican nominee, in a campaign that will be the Empire State's first without former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in 16 years, and, some say, the best Democratic chance to regain the statehouse in that period of time.

Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark and Syracuse Mayor Lee Alexander are the leaders in a three-way Democratic senatorial primary. The winner will face, but not be favored to beat, Republican Sen. Jacob Javits.

Florida candidates are battling for a Senate post becoming vacant with the voluntary withdrawal of Republican Sen. Edward Gurney. Rep. Bill Gunter, former Secretary of State Richard Stone, former State Sen. Mallory Horne and State Sen. Richard Pettigrew lead a big field of Democrats. The GOP nomination is between businessman Jack Ekerd and Paula Hawkins.

Gary Hart, a top aide in Sen. George McGovern's 1972 presidential campaign, is the favorite over Democrats Herriek Roth and Martin Miller for the nomination to oppose Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo. Republican Gov. John Vanderhoof has primary opposition from Bill Daniels and two state legislators, Richard Lamm and Thomas Farley are fighting for the Democratic nomination.

The District of Columbia is having its first election for formation of its home rule government. Walter Washington, the appointed mayor, is favored for the Democratic nomination and election in November, over Clifford Alexander, a former Johnson administration equal employment official.

Maryland has contests for both governor and senator, with Democratic Gov. Marvin Mandel regarded home free in his primary, but Rep. Larry Hogan and Louise Gore, a GOP leader, battling for the Republican nomination.

Maryland Republican Sen. Charles Mathias has lightly regarded primary opposition, but the Democrats have a contest under way led by Baltimore City Councilwoman Barbara Mikulski and former Vietnam POW Bernard Talley.

Other primaries will be held tomorrow in Arizona, Connecticut, Minnesota, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Utah, Wisconsin and Vermont.

be clearly understood that the chief objective of Department of Transportation grant programs is to help cities solve their transportation problems. It is not to restructure and rebuild cities."

"America must have better solutions," he said to the growing problems of congestion and pollution now complicated by energy conservation. But he added, "federal taxpayers just can't afford to pay for the whole package. I won't ask them to do so."

As a Michigan resident with the name of Ford, "you can see I'm not going to say any unkind things about automobiles," he joked.

"But excessive use of cars in dense urban areas increases pollution levels, causes jammed traffic, massive headaches, and the bumper-to-bumper tie-ups burn too much scarce and expensive fuel," he said.

He said well planned action is essential to make major progress in urban transit, and also that a selling job is needed.

IMPEACH

D-W Va., said resumption of the impeachment process was a "viable alternative." But he added it might not be realistic.

A number of other pro-impeachment members of the committee were expected to go along with Waldie and Edwards when the House returns Wednesday.

But Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., contacted by telephone at his home in Newark, said he had no intention of reviving the impeachment inquiry. He said the only purpose of impeachment — to remove a person from office — has already been served in Nixon's case.

Rep. Robert W. Kastermeier, D-Wis., a member of the Judiciary Committee which voted to impeach Nixon, also said he thought the idea was impractical. But he added that he was disturbed by President Ford's decision to pardon Nixon "because what it has done is put the welfare of one person above the law and really above the public interest."

Kastermeier noted the committee also must deal with the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

Although Waldie or any other member could bring an impeachment resolution before the House and stop consideration of all other business, the California congressman noted: "It does seem to me what is more important is not to bring the impeachment resolution up, it is to have the President's testimony."

He served in the Rainbow Division in World War I and the Air Force in World War II and retired from military service in 1961.

Hardy was assigned to Hamilton Air Force Base in 1952 and was editor of the Scramble, the base newspaper. He was a native of Chicago and attended Princeton University. He had been a resident of Marin since 1952, except for a tour of duty in France.

New Japan Envoy Says Ford Liked

TOKYO (AP) — The new U.S. ambassador to Japan, James D. Hodgson, and President Ford have at least one complaint in common. Both lost their personal swimming pools recently when they took new jobs.

Hodgson used to enjoy a dip in the pool at his Beverly Hills home. But the ambassador's pool in Tokyo was torn out when work began this summer on a new embassy building. Ford lost his pool when he moved into the White House.

"They took away my swimming pool, so I'm among the disadvantaged," the 57-year-old ambassador joked during an interview. "For a Californian not to have a swimming pool, he feels disadvantaged."

JAMES D. HODGSON
No pool, either

The former Lockheed Aircraft Corp. vice president and former secretary of labor in 1970 arrived in Japan in July with his wife, Maria, for his first diplomatic assignment.

Hodgson was nominated in March for the post, but his confirmation was held up by Sen. Stuart Symington. D-Md. Symington reportedly feared Hodgson's appointment might give Lockheed an edge in international sales over the McDonnell Douglas Corp., the giant aircraft maker in Symington's hometown of St. Louis.

Hodgson said he used the time during the delay to do extensive research on Japan and now he is immersed in meeting as many people as possible and learning first-hand about Japan.

"One of the delights of diplomatic life, compared to business life, is that there are many things in which the wife can be included," he said.

"It is not only good for domestic felicity, but in this case it also is good for Japanese-American relations," the ambassador added.

He said the Japanese seem delighted with President Ford and his obvious demonstration of interest in the Japanese.

The ambassador pointed out that the first individual representative of a foreign nation Ford met as President was the Japanese ambassador in Washington. The new President declared that he plans to visit Japan this year, and he has invited Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka to stop in Washington during his trip to Canada and Latin America this month.

"This is the kind of thing that Japanese-American relations need," Hodgson said.

"It shows a sensitivity to the fact that the Japanese feel they have a special relationship with the United States and they rely on the United States and they need assurance from the United States."

"No more conspicuous assurance could be given than this kind of attention."

The ambassador starts his day at 6:30 a.m. with exercises, followed by an hour's Japanese language lesson with his wife and an instructor. Most of his days and, frequently the evenings, are occupied with get-acquainted meetings with Japanese government and business leaders and members of the U.S. community in Japan.

Hodgson was raised in Minnesota and went to the University of California at Los Angeles for graduate work. He later taught labor relations there.

He joined Lockheed as a personnel assistant in 1941, spent three years in the Pacific as a naval air combat intelligence officer during World War II and then returned to Lockheed.

Idria—Whole Mining Town Is Up For Sale

IDRIA, Calif. (UPI) — For sale: a town.

Forty six houses, a school, a church, fire station, general store, fire hydrants, ambulance shed and authentic remnants of the great California gold rush.

The New Idria Mining Co., based in San Francisco, has had 3,700 acres in the Diablo Range of San Benito County, on the market since its mercury mining operation closed down in 1972.

The Milton J. Wershow Co. has tried twice to auction off the whole kit and kaboodle but there have been no takers. One bidder put up $300,000 but the sale fell through when there was a disagreement over terms.

The town of Idria is in pretty good shape but it only has three residents. Population at one time was over 400 but now Mark Ward, the former manager of the mine, his wife and their teenage son, Philip, are the only ones who live there.

According to writer Bret Harte, Idria was founded in 1854 when prospectors were swarming the California mountains. There were few gold strikes but they did find a substantial deposit of cinnabar.

the ore from which mercury is refined.

In 1898 the New Iberia Mining Co. began bringing out the cinnabar and big furnaces were built while ore was converted to mercury. Expenses became so high — particularly compared to mining in Spain — that operations were halted two years ago.

Ward says that at one time there was a house of ill repute at the top of a hill overlooking the town but the wives of Idria got together one day, drove the "girls" out and burned down the house.

Also left are the foundations of what once was a pool hall and saloon of the rip roaring gold rush days.

Anyone who buys the town gets the whole package since the mining company owns the houses and everything else.

Leonard Rood of the Wershow Co. says there have been a few prospective buyers. They have expressed interest in converting it into a recreational area, using it as a retreat or making it a set for western and mountain movies.

GOP Seen Facing An Uphill Fight

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Democrats probably will maintain or tighten their hold on the California Legislature in the Nov. 5 elections.

The party is banking on holding or increasing its present 49-31 Assembly and 22-18 Senate majorities. Republicans would like to add seats too, but they realistically hope to hold what they have.

In this period only a few months after the Watergate scandal revelations, Republicans are vowing to work hard to muster enthusiasm in GOP ranks.

"The most difficult problem is the apathy among voters that may have been brought out by this political situation. Republicans depend on a high percentage turnout," said Frank Murphy, Republican chairman in the Assembly.

"We have to build up enthusiasm among Republicans to insure we have a big turnout."

Sen. George Deukmejian, the Long Beach Republican who is GOP floor leader in the Senate, emphasized that the attitude of Republican volunteers was particularly important.

"Watergate will have an effect if Republican workers, especially, let it affect them to the point they don't get out and do the necessary volunteer work. We are a minority party to begin with, and we always have an uphill fight."

"So it's essential that we get out 90 to 95 per cent of the Republican vote. If the disillusionment of some Republicans over Watergate is so great they have the attitude of staying home and not working or voting, then it will affect Republican candidates in Senate and Assembly races," Deukmejian said.

Democratic Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy said he thought the election's single biggest issue will hurt all Republican candidates—even those who had very little to do with shaping that policy," the San Francisco lawmaker said.

On Watergate, McCarthy said, "A year ago, I didn't think it would have that much impact on state races, but today it seems an all-pervasive issue."

Bob Beverly, GOP minority leader in the Assembly, disputed the contention Watergate would have a big effect on legislative races.

"I don't see it. I don't see what happened on the national scene will affect local races that much," he said. Here is a brief sketch of some of the incumbent candidates likely to run into strong opposition pushes to oust them:

LAWRENCE KAPLOFF AND BOB WILSON — Both of these Democratic assemblymen face tough fights for re-election in conservative San Diego County. Republicans name these two as prime targets they would like to pick off.

RAY GONZALES — As a freshman Democrat in the Assembly, Gonzales voted against the death penalty. He comes from a Bakersfield district where many voters wouldn't like that stand. He faces a community college professor, William Thomas, who is viewed as a moderate within GOP ranks.

PAUL BANNAI AND ROBERT McLENNAN — Both these freshmen Republican assemblymen won their Los Angeles County seats in special elections where the GOP pumped in big amounts of money and volunteer help. New reapportionment has cut McLennan in the same district with incumbent Democrat Joe Gonsalves so the two must face each other in November. Bannai faces Democrat Maurice Mayesh.

ator, Bradley is a traditional Democratic target every four years. This time around Bradley faces Jerome Smith, the mayor of Saratoga. Smith is considered a strong candidate by Democrats, but Bradley has been in the Legislature since 1953.

CRAIG BIDDLE — In a district sprawling over portions of Riverside and San Bernardino counties, GOP state Sen. Craig Biddle faces a challenge from Robert Presley, the Riverside County undersheriff who came within 3,500 votes of beating him in a special election two years ago. Since then, however, Biddle has zeroed in on some issues close to his district's heart — like the Southern California smog problem — and some of his Democratic opposition agrees privately that Biddle is a stronger candidate this time around.

Evel Knievel's Canyon Blast A Flop, But He Survives

Malfunction Of Chute Drops Him On Shore

By TERRANCE McGARRY
TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Evel Knievel blasted over the Snake River Canyon in a powerful steam rocket yesterday but a puzzling, premature parachute opening yanked him to a halt and dropped him on the near shore of the river, $6 million richer but 10 seconds short of his eight-year goal.

Knievel's "skycycle" bumped and battered against the lava walls of the canyon as he floated down into the 600-foot deep gorge and bounced onto a rock outcropping.

The motorcycle stuntman's face was cut and bruised and his knees were lacerated, but he was not hurt otherwise.

"The people prayed and God made the wind blow," Knievel said, explaining the 15 mile per hour breeze that blew him back to a landing on the south shore of the river and saved him from possible drowning in the turbulent currents at midstream.

The rocket ascended for only 8.7 seconds. Had it gone on as planned, an extra 10 seconds of thrust was expected to have carried him to the other side.

There were conflicting explanations about just what went wrong with the much bally-hooded launch.

Evel said first that he had accidentally popped the chute — designed to bring him to earth after he had crossed the 1,600-foot-wide canyon — because he had been taught by rocket designer Robert Truax that "if I could see the opposite walls of the canyon, instead of just sky, to pull the chute because that meant I was rolling" — going out of control.

But television tapes of the launch showed the parachute began deploying as the "skycycle" boomed up the short, steeply inclined launch ramp with a blast of steam power that awed spectators.

It was braking the rocket even as it shot off the ramp bound for the other side of the chasm.

Don Branker, executive producer of the closed-circuit television show that helped earn a fortune for Knievel, said the stuntman apparently released a "spring-loaded 'deadman's bar'" that turned loose the chutes under the impact of the launching thrust, five times the normal pull of gravity.

But Knievel himself, and the promoters of the jump, said later it was a "machine malfunction" and "metal failure" that caused the premature parachute release.

"His wife, his family, all of us, we all thought he was dead," when the parachute brought the rocket to a halt over the canyon and dropped it slowly toward the river, Branker said.

The crowd gasped and shouted in alarm as the "skycycle" floated down out of view. Knievel could be seen struggling with the straps holding him in, trying to bail out with a reserve parachute before he got too low to use it.

"Thank God I didn't go into the river or I never would have made it," he said later.

"I'm sorry, I tried my best," Knievel told the estimated 30,000 fans who thronged the hot, dusty, southern rim of the canyon to see the "stunt of the century," which the truck-jumping motorcycle daredevil has been talking about since 1966.

He had originally planned to fly over the Grand Canyon in Arizona with a jet-equipped motorcycle, but moved the stunt to Idaho when the federal government refused to go along.

"I've heard it said that it's not whether you've won or lost but how you've played the game," Knievel said.

"And to lose to a beautiful canyon like this is, to me, not a real loss. I would rather have had a happy landing on the other side."

Robert Arum, president of Top Rank Inc., promoters of the leap, said it was a draw — "Knievel didn't defeat the canyon, but the canyon didn't defeat Knievel either. He made the jump. He pulled the trigger and flew."

Arum said the promoters expected to take in about $26 million in revenue from the $25 a head admission fee at the site, closed circuit television showings and other income.

That was $6 million less than Top Rank had been predicting, but Knievel drew his promised $6 million minimum fee for attempting the jump.

It lasted approximately 45 seconds, according to television technicians who recorded it.

Bob Garrison, a rescue worker, dropped from a hovering helicopter seconds after the rocket came to a halt in brush-covered rocks about 20 feet from the water's edge.

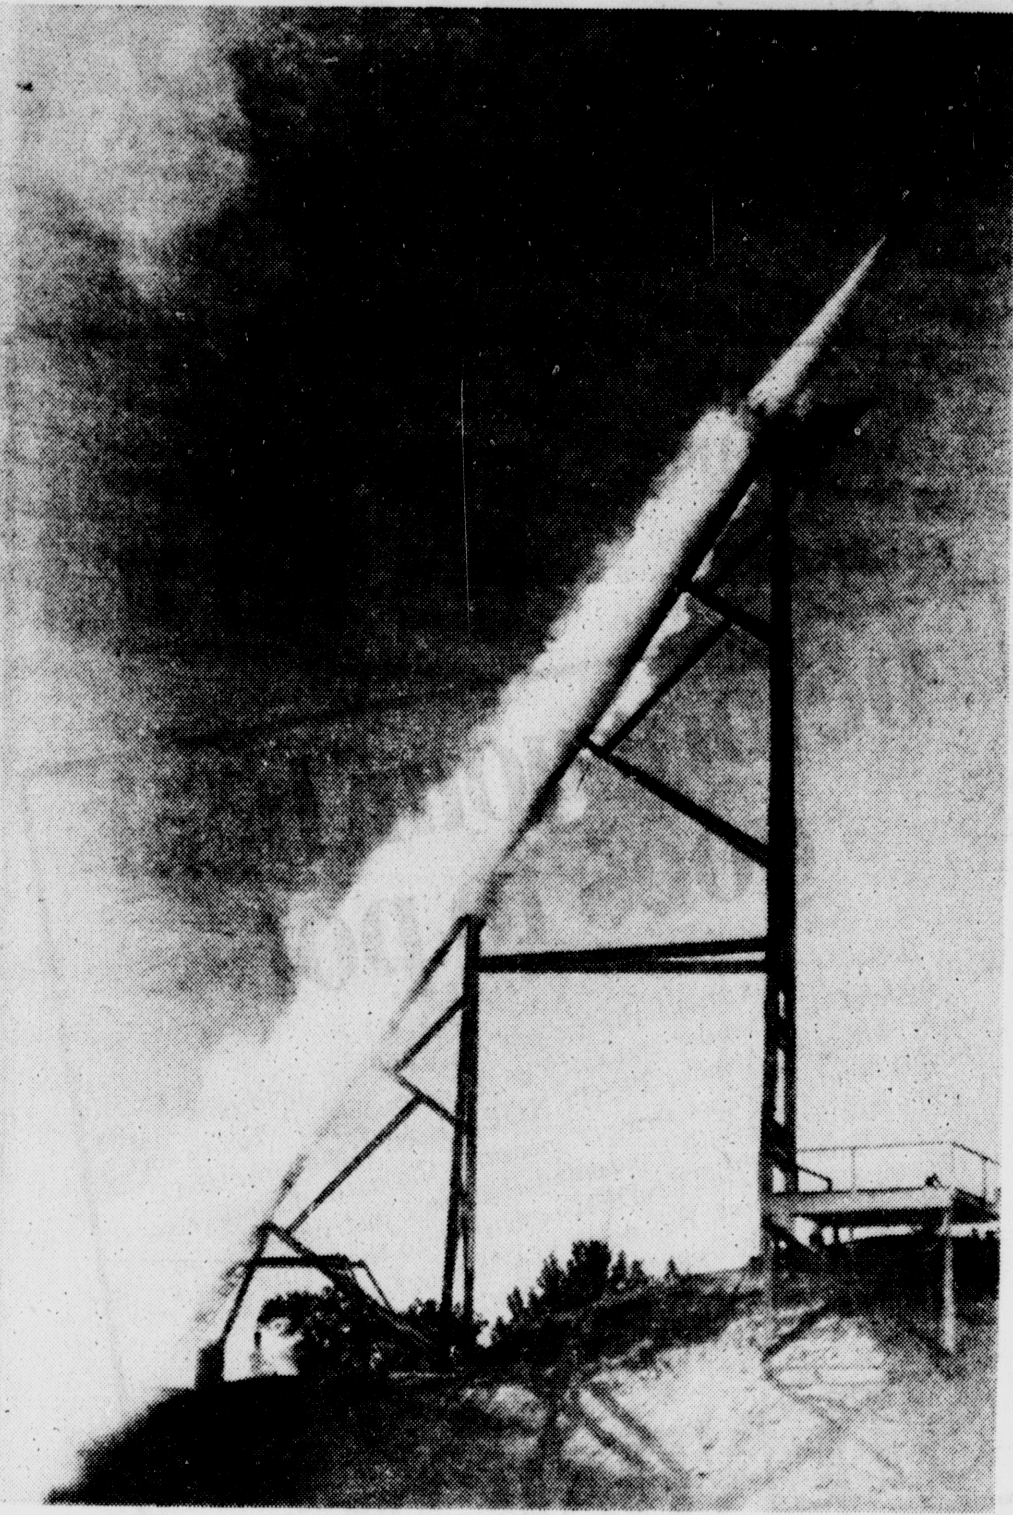

"Are you hurt?" he asked.

"No," Knievel grunted, but Garrison made him move his arms, legs and back to show he had no injuries before a crew of helicopter-borne rescuers hauled him from the cramped confines of the 13-foot long rocket.

Knievel's father, Robert Knievel Sr., said later that his son's face was apparently cut and battered by the force of his helmet slamming down over his eyes by the impact of the 5,000-pound jolt that shot him up the takeoff ramp.

Knievel did not say whether he would try to repeat the stunt. Branker said he doubted that "he would every try anything like this again." But Knievel's father said he wouldn't rule out such a possibility.

"I don't think it affected him in the least," the elder Knievel said.

WHAT GOES UP ... As Evel Knievel's rocket ship leaves the launch ramp for his Snake River Canyon jump, the drogue parachute leaves the rocket. It can be seen (left) in the smoke. The drag from the chute kept Knievel from getting across the 1700-foot canyon yesterday. Instead, he sank slowly into the gorge, fortunately landing on a bank rather than the turbulent water. (UPI Telephoto)

San Francisco, Oakland Port Merger Urged

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland port commissioner Thomas Berkley says his port and San Francisco's should eventually merge.

"We're one of the world's great ports while there is nothing for San Francisco to do but get worse," Berkeley said yesterday.

He said the "ultimate approach to handling San Francisco Bay is going to be some kind of merger."

American President Lines recently announced it would move out of Oakland from San Francisco.

Seven Die As Fire Ravages Nursing Home

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — Fire gutted a nursing home early today, killing seven persons and injuring four others. Firemen who arrived at the scene less than five minutes after an alarm was received said flames had completely engulfed the building and were shooting over 75 feet in the air.

Later, firemen recovered the bodies of six elderly tenants and a 10-year-old boy. Four other occupants of the building escaped safely and were taken to a St. Joseph hospital for treatment of minor burns and shock.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze was under investigation.

RIOT IN SEOUL — Tear gas billows near the Japanese embassy in Seoul, South Korea, this morning as thousands of South Koreans clash with riot police in a violent anti-

Japanese demonstration over the attempted assassination Aug. 15 of Korean President Park Chung-hee.

(UPI Telephoto)

Rock-Throwing Koreans Battle Police In Seoul

SEOUL (UPI) — Thousands of rock-throwing South Koreans clashed with riot police in Seoul today in another violent anti-Japanese demonstration over the Aug. 15 assassination attempt on President Park Chung-hee.

United Press International photographer M.Y. Yoon said he saw six persons cut off their first and ring fingers with a huge kitchen knife to dramatize the protest. Police quickly stepped in to snatch away the knife and a chopping board. Yoon said.

Police fired tear gas to disperse the chanting demonstrators marching on the four-story Japanese Embassy in downtown Seoul, ransacked in earlier outbreaks, and reported several persons injured in the half-hour confrontation.

About 2,000 riot policemen, armed with clubs, helmets and shields, blocked all streets around the embassy using buses as roadblocks against the crowd of about 15,000 labor unionists and members of civic groups.

Some demonstrators wore white headbands emblazoned with anti-Japanese slogans. Others carried placards urging the Korean government to sever diplomatic relations with Japan and burned Japanese leaders in effigy.

Koreans have been demonstrating almost daily to protest Japan's alleged lack of action in investigating the Aug. 15 assassination attempt on Park.

Younger Assesses Watergate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A U.S. Attorney General free from "complete political domination by the President" may become one of the nation's Watergate legacies, the state's top law officer said today.

State Attorney General Evette J. Younger told convention members of the California Bar that it may even be possible to make the legal arm of government answerable to Congress or "directly to the people."

"Before the lessons of Watergate fade into history, let's take the opportunity to correct some of the deficiencies that were revealed," Younger said.

"One of the saddest aspects of the Watergate affair was the fact that the U.S. Department of Justice was so badly compromised," he said.

Monday, September 9, 1974

Independent Journal 11

Younger said a number of possible courses of action existed, including electing the Attorney General on a nationwide ballot. He pointed out that most states, including California, elect their chief law officers.

He said the appointment could also be tied more closely to Congress, with removal from office dependent on Congressional acquiescence.

"An Attorney General can very adequately represent executive departments in court without being an appointee of the executive," Younger said.

While saying he was "not trying to present any final answers," Younger said it was essential that the U.S. Attorney General's office "cease to be a repository for retired campaign managers."

Korean Aid Cut Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate Foreign Relations Committee report says American military aid to South Korea should be cut immediately and eliminated entirely by 1977 because of domestic policies of South Korean President Park Chung-hee.

The action, if approved by Congress, would severely disrupt a modernization program underway in the country's armed forces.

A bill by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, would place a ceiling of $133.9 million on U.S. military grants or credits for South Korea in the current fiscal year, about three fourths of the current ceiling.

The 100-page committee report was made public Saturday.

LONDON (UPI) — Scientists at the National Physical Laboratory have issued a correction on how fast light travels.

With new measurements they say the figure is 299,792,458 meters a second — one meter a second faster than the current internationally accepted figure.

The scientists said they based their calculations on the wave length and frequency of light from a laser.

Kidnaped Mexican Leader Free

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria's 83-year-old father-in-law has ended a 10-day kidnap ordeal with criticism of the government and praise for his leftist captors.

Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez, a political power in his own right, attacked his son-in-law's government for letting "itself come under control of the reactionary forces of the world."

Zuno told a news conference at his home yesterday the leftist guerrillas who kidnaped him from a Guadalajara street Aug. 28 were "clean-living good boys."

He also denounced "Yankee imperialism" and attacked the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency as a group of "capitalists who have no respect for anything."

The People's Revolutionary Armed Forces freed him unharmed Saturday night even though his son-in-law refused to meet the leftist group's demands for $1.5 million in ransom and the release of 15 jailed leftists.

In another kidnaping, army troops raided a guerrilla hide-out in the Sierra Madre mountains near Acapulco yesterday to set free Sen. Ruben Figueroa. The 74-year-old legislator had been held for more than three months.

Zuno, a former governor and political kingmaker in Mexico, said the kidnapers were "not nearly as dangerous to Mexicans as the CIA, the Yankee imperialists and the capitalists who have no respect for anything."

"From the very beginning my captors treated me well," he said. "They gave me everything I wanted. They gave me my medicines and I talked with them about philosophy, humanism. They listened to me."

He reported rebuking the leftists, however, for employing kidnap tactics. "Boys, this is not the way to make your ideas known," he said he told them. "Not by going around scaring families."

Today is Monday, Sept. 9, the 232nd day of 1974 with 133 to follow.
The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

American scientist Joseph Leidy was born Sept. 9, 1823.
On this day in history:
In 1776, the second Continental Congress officially changed the American nation's name from "United Colonies" to "United States."

In 1943, American and British troops from North Africa invaded Italy at Salerno.

In 1969, 83 persons were killed when a jetliner and a small plane collided in flight near Indianapolis, Ind. In 1971, more than 1,000 convicts took over the state prison at Attica, N.Y., and held 35 convicts hostage. Four days later, 28 convicts and nine hostages were killed as state police retook the prison.

A thought for the day: Massachusetts Gov. Calvin Coolidge, who later became the 31st president, said, "There is no right to strike against public safety, anywhere, anytime."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Right Time Must Be Picked To Cover An Honor With Honor

"Cover an honor with an honor," says the old rule. It was a good rule in the days of whist, but it doesn't work so well at bridge.

hand toward dummy's nine. West couldn't prevent the nine from winning a trick, and the defenders therefore got only two diamond tricks.

What is the correct rule in such situations? Don't cover the first of "equal" cards. Wait until the last equal is led and then cover that one if it will do your side any good.

In this case, dummy's ten and nine of diamonds were equals. When the ten is led, East should play low. This drives out West's king.

Later, dummy leads the nine of diamonds. Since this is the last of the equals, East covers with the jack. No matter how South plays, the defenders must now win three diamond tricks.

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

You cannot afford to make a jump bid since you have only 11 points. If you had passed originally, however, you would jump to two notrump for then your strength would be clearly limited.

School Goes To These Students

By ERNEST MURPHY

For nearly 450 of Sonoma State College's students, the expression "going to college" has become obsolete.

Instead, the college has begun going to the students.

While this in itself is nothing new — extension programs, after all, have been around a long time — Sonoma State's approach is different.

The external degree program, as it is called, provides students with an opportunity to obtain degrees without attending classes on campus.

Sonoma State's five external degree programs offer bachelor of arts degrees in criminal justice administration and liberal arts and master's degrees in counseling, psychology and early childhood education.

The programs are directed by Charles E. Wallace, coordinator of continuing education at the Rohnert Park campus.

Except for their purpose, that of broadening the availability of higher education, Wallace said, few other generalizations can be made about the five programs.

Some, like psychology, are more like internships, with students earning academic credit through on-the-job experience with professional practitioners.

Others, like liberal arts, are home study courses while still others combine independent study with classroom sessions.

The programs began two years ago, Wallace said, "after

CHARLES E. WALLACE
External degree programmer

we did a kind of 'market survey' of our area, which is bounded by Fort Bragg to the west, Napa to the east, Willits to the North and the Golden Gate to the south.

"Through the survey we identified different age groups of people in various geographic areas, finding out things like what kind of degrees they wanted and how many nights a week they could work on them."

A high percentage of those in the programs, he said, are "people who need to be in their communities rather than on campus — people who work in the daytime and housewives."

The largest of the programs is psychology, with about 150 students enrolled.

Early childhood education and liberal arts follow with about 100 in each, and about 30 students each are enrolled in the counseling and criminal justice programs.

Wallace said course fees, ranging from $30 to $45 per unit a semester, are higher than the usual $28 extension fee because the programs are designed to pay for themselves.

"We try to keep them roughly comparable with the cost of attending on campus since they lead to specific degrees," Wallace said.

In most cases, two to four years of study are needed to complete degree requirements.

While individual students are scattered around the college's service area, parts of the programs function in centralized locations convenient to as many students as possible.

A number of students in the education program, for example, spent the summer working in the San Rafael city school system. The Sonoma State programs are part of a larger network of similar offerings by other state colleges.

At Sonoma State, community colleges including the College of Marin were involved in the organization and planning of many of the degree programs.

This fall, Wallace said, two Sonoma State criminal justice administration classes will be held at the Kentfield facility — the Marin college offers a place for class sessions, libraries and research facilities and an extra attraction, a criminal justice program of its own. Wallace said he hopes College of Marin students will be aware of the Sonoma State program and thus will be encouraged to continue studies in the field after leaving the two-year community college.

Because other schools are involved, and because so many of the courses are concentrated on home study and internship, the need for faculty manpower is kept under control, Wallace explained.

He said that the equivalent of about eight full-time faculty members teach in the external degree programs. Actually, the number of individuals is greater because they work with the program part time.

Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the state college and university system, believes the external degree programs will eventually play a key role in the state's education system because of their current success in increasing the access of citizens to higher learning.

Through the programs, Dumke said recently, "our universities and colleges are demonstrating that they are not ivory towers, and that they can meet specialized learning requirements of citizens who do not fit traditional descriptions of typical students."

Ford Motor Expands Its Warranty

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. said today it was expanding its warranty on 1975-model cars and trucks to cover all service adjustments required in normal use for the first 90 days.

Typical break-in service includes wheel balancing and alignment; headlight alignment; adjustments to carburetors, distributors, valves, belts, transmission, clutch and brake system; cleaning of fuel, cooling and brake systems; adjustment of fluid for power steering and brakes and tightening of nuts.

The service adjustment feature is in addition to the regular 12,000-mile, 12-month warranty on materials and workmanship. Previously, the warranty covered 90-day break-in service only on intermediate, standard and luxury cars and light trucks.

Political Leaders Criticize Nixon Pardon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Political leaders generally expressed disenchantment at President Ford's pardon yesterday of former President Nixon. Many criticized the timing of the announcement and the effect it would have on a nation rebounding from the Watergate scandals and a presidential reorganization.

Democrats overwhelmingly opposed granting of the pardon, many bitterly, and were joined by a large number of Republicans. Some from both parties praised the action, calling it courageous and aimed at bringing the country together.

But several critics contended Ford's action would hinder the nation from ever learning the full truth about Watergate and the cover-up.

Among those supporting the pardon were Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, and former Attorney General Elliot Richardson.

"I have a great deal of compassion for Nixon," said Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. "But I'm afraid this may have opened up the whole Watergate controversy one more time." He said the decision "might create public furor and the country doesn't need that right now."

Another member of the defunct Senate Watergate Committee, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., said, "President Ford's pardon ... is neither equal justice nor leadership in a government of laws."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the pardon "is premature and, I think, a serious mistake."

"It raises very serious questions about our systems of law, and about whether we have a double standard of justice in this country," Kennedy said.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the pardon "can be cited as a precedent in trials all over the country and seriously TELLS OF PARDON — President Gerald Ford read a statement yesterday that he has granted former President Richard M. Nixon a "full, free and absolute pardon" for all offenses committed while in office. Ford said Nixon and his family have "suffered enough and will continue to suffer no matter what I do."

challenges the premise that there is one law for the high and the low, the rich and the poor."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., whom Nixon defeated in 1972, said: "A person can only wonder how the President (Nixon) can be granted a pardon while his subordinates are being sent off to prison."

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., who had been one of the first Republicans to call for Nixon's resignation, said the pardon was "a serious mistake" without Nixon's admitting complicity in the Watergate cover-up.

"He has shown no remorse, no contrition," Brooke said. He said Ford "could have at least conditioned his pardon upon Nixon's full confession."

Scott said Ford "acted with great humanity to bring an end to American tragedy", adding that it was "a courageous decision."

Reagan said it was "the right thing to do", adding that Nixon "has suffered as much as any man should."

Sens. John Tower, R-Tex., Norris Cotton, R-N.H., and Carl Curtis, R-Neb., among Nixon's strongest Capitol Hill supporters, all praised the action. Curtis called it "great statesmanship" on the part of Ford.

Sens. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Robert Packwood, R-Ore., all said they disagreed with the decision, and Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., recalled that Ford told a Senate confirmation hearing when he was named vice president that the "public would not stand for it" if a President issued such a pardon. Senate Democratic whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said the action "hurts the president's believability and credibility."

At least two persons — Democratic Utah Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, chairman of the National Governors' conference, and Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, said Ford exceeded his presidential powers.

NOT CONSULTED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski informed presidential lawyers about the case against Richard M. Nixon but "had no voice" in President Ford's final decision to grant a pardon, according to the White House.

Presidential counsel Philip Buchen, meeting with reporters after Ford made his surprise announcement yesterday, said Jaworski informed him there were "no time bombs" or new information about to be disclosed in the prosecution's case.

"This is a matter that was decided upon by the President on his authority under the Constitution," Jaworski was quoted as saying. "It was something I didn't participate in."

cording to sources close to the case.

At least one possibility, which a source said was reasonable, is that the jury for the Sept. 30 trial will be more sympathetic now toward the defendants.

John N. Mitchell, H.R. Halde-man, John D. Ehrlichman, Gordon Strachan, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian all face charges of obstruction of justice, perjury or conspiracy in connection with the cover-up of the Watergate break-in.

PROTEST CALLS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House switchboard has been swamped with telephone calls expressing opinions on President Ford's decision to pardon former President Nixon. Most of the calls were in protest.

A White house official said there were about 150 telephone calls from people around the country saying "they're disgusted or shocked" and "they're not going to vote for him (Ford)."

During the same period, there were about 50 or 60 calls from persons saying Ford "did the right thing."

TerHorst Quits Over Pardoning Of Nixon

J.F. ter HORST
Press aide resigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — J. F. terHorst, who had promised to be candid in his job as White House press secretary, quit yesterday because he could not support or defend President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon.

"I felt in good conscience I could not support his decision," terHorst told UPI, "because I didn't know how I could credibly defend it in the absence of pardons for those who evaded the war in Vietnam in good conscience and former Nixon aides who have suffered under the same Watergate" troubles as Nixon.

"Mercy, like justice, must be even-handed," terHorst said.

"I just concluded the President (Nixon) is no more deserving of a pardon than people in lesser stations of life," he said.

TerHorst, 52, was the first Ford appointee and the first to quit.

From his first day as press secretary, terHorst, by statement and example, was candid with reporters and aggressively carried out Ford's pledge to have an "open administration."

The former Washington bureau chief of the Detroit News, who reported on Ford during his quarter century as a congressman, said he told the President of his decision yesterday morning about an hour before the President's unexpected announcement of the pardon.

Afterward, Ford spent 6 1/2 hours playing golf in suburban Maryland, and by the time he returned to the White House in early evening, terHorst was gone.

YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH

The Child And The Miracle Of New Life

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
and
BRIAN SULLIVAN
(First of a 10-part series)

Consider for a moment the miracle that is your child. In the beginning, only two cells merged to bring new life — an ovum or egg of the mother, and a fertilizing sperm of the father.

SOME NINE months later, your baby was born, composed of thousands of billions of living cells, all of them performing specialized tasks, in the heart, or liver or lung, skin, nose or bone or eye — or the brain.

Your baby was born to have some 12 billion brain nerve cells. Brain cells increase in number and size for a few years as a child grows, finally to reach 12 billion. When brain cells die, as they do after age 25 particularly, they are never replaced. In contrast, you are constantly making new liver and kidney and red and white blood cells, and other kinds of cells, to maintain efficient functioning. Your bone marrow produces about 1,000,000 new red cells a second to replace those worn out or destroyed at the same rate.

ALL THESE different cells — the human adult will have 100,000 billion of them in total — were directed to form themselves into fantastic life systems by the genetic information or code carried in the two original germ cells, the ovum and sperm.

These essential system include the heart, pushing out nutritious blood while beating, on average, 72 times per minute, more than 100,000 times a day, or 37,000 times in one year.

THERE IS the digestive system, taking in all manner of food and drink and breaking it all down into simpler substances to be used as building blocks to create body tissues and energy. There is the nervous system, speeding signals up to more than 100 yards a second, or well over 200 miles per hour.

In one square inch of skin are 72 feet of nerves, and some 15 feet of tiny blood vessels, plus hundreds of special receptors giving you a stream of vital information about pressure, touch, heat and cold.

AND, AGAIN, there is the brain, residence of intelligence and memory, initially a clean slate on which to record experiences and knowledge and things past and learned, and obedience to habits — including good or bad health habits.

Parents can largely fashion good habits, or change harmful ones. It is never too late to start with children of any age. Why not praise children and award them "brownie points" for good habits and behavior, rather than singling out their errors?

WHY NOT use your influence, supported by sound health information, to combat TV commercials or other advertisements conning children into using products, or believing things, that might be harmful or useless?

Forming healthy habits is the concern of this series — what you can do to assure good health and long life for your children during critical formative years.

IT OFFERS the latest advice from experts in many fields of health.

"Grandma" was often right, but she was often wrong, too. And health researchers have come up with new knowledge on how to encourage and promote good health.

THERE ARE MISTAKES parents can avoid in order to support rather than upset the exquisite human machinery of body and mind.

One mistake, most experts agree, would be the failure to relax and give your children love and laughter.

They will give it back. (Tomorrow: Mental Health)

Marin Girls Are Showing Renewed Sorority Interest

By BETTY FROST

What does the young woman entering college this month think about sororities?

Betty Celia, of San Rafael, president of the Marin County Alumnae Panhellenic Association, said registration for rushing is up in all colleges and universities in the state, following a nationwide trend.

REVIVED INTEREST in the houses is also indicated by formation of new sorority chapters at several California institutions during the past year. The University of California at Davis now has six sororities, the University of California at Irvine three, and California Polytechnic State University at San Luis Obispo one. No national women's fraternities had chapters on these campuses before.

Because different colleges open at different times, and all information is not yet in, it is difficult to pinpoint the number of Marin girls who will register for rushing by National Panhellenic houses this fall. Also contributing is a lack of information and uniformity in the registration process, according to Mrs. Celia.

ANY MEMBER of a Panhellenic sorority can take a recommendation and forward it to either Mrs. Celia or Sondra Adams of San Rafael, master file chairman in Marin. Sometimes a request for registration of Marin girls comes to the local women through the university coed who attend.

In past years a tea was given by the local Panhellenic organization, which has delegates from 15 sororities in the National Panhellenic Council. This gave girls who wished more information about the rushing process and the sorority system a chance to discuss these matters with sorority alumnae. The tea was dropped about 10 years ago when interest in houses grew less.

THE LOCAL PANEHELLENIC organization now sponsors a scholarship program in the county. The applicants are contacted, but many of these girls are not interested in going through rushing, according to Mrs. Celia. Attempts to set up an information center at Marin high schools in the spring have met with mixed results. Some high schools don't want to be bothered. In other schools, where the administration makes time available, there may be only a handful of girls who express interest.

"It seems to grow through the summer by word of mouth, and often the decision to go through rushing is a last-minute one," Mrs. Celia said.

ONE INDICATION in the upsurge of interest in sororities is a report from the University of California at Los Angeles, (where rushing is early) where 246 young women had registered by early July, and three times that many were expected. UCLA had a total of 250 rushers four years ago.

While registration for rushing is higher this year, there may be fewer houses to welcome the girls. In the post World War II years there were 23 sororities active on the University of California at Berkeley campus. During the troubled 1960's many houses succumbed to a combination of dwindling membership and high maintenance costs. There are now 11 sororities on the Berkeley campus, and they are limited by the university, which controls all student housing, as to the number of students they can house.

MRS. ADAMS, who receives applications from college-bound Marin girls, says "I am very impressed with the girls this year. They have good grades and tremendous activity records. They are serious and dedicated young people, who will make up their own minds."

Why has there been a revival of interest in women's fraternities, when they seemed so anachronistic in the activist days of 1960?

Many parents who are sending their daughters to a large university think of a house with friends, a housemother, and alumnae support as an extension of home.

What have been called "the University Hiltons," the high-rise dormitories, are often as impersonal as a downtown department house in a large city.

The freedom of college apartment living which sounds glamorous to the student away from home for the first time, can become a burden. With meals to get and a dwelling to keep clean on top of all the adjustments of a tough university schedule, the young person may seek an alternative. Given a few invitations to dinner from friends in houses, where the common rooms are usually professionally cleaned, and the freshman apartment dweller may become a sophomore pledge.

A Production Line Is Suggested For Making Of School Lunches

Marin mothers of school-aged children view the end of summer with mixed emotions. One emotion that's almost universally unmixed however, is the one with which most mothers confront school lunch making.

It is loathing. Along comes a blueprint for keeping mothers sane and eliminating the daily routine.

Margaret Spader, home economist with the Aluminum Association, suggests setting up a production line and making two or three weeks' supply of sandwiches at a time.

When properly wrapped, they can be stored in the freezer with no deterioration in quality.

Frozen sandwiches thaw in about an hour at room temperature, so are ready to eat at lunch time. The quality of the sandwich depends on the quality of ingredients that go into it and the expertise of wrapping.

All food should be of top quality — freezing preserves quality, it does not improve it. Foods in less than peak condition deteriorate more noticeably when frozen.

When wrapped in an air tight foil package, sandwiches will stay fresh several hours after thawing.

Besides eliminating a job that is repeated 180 days a year, the production line, freezing approach to making sandwiches results in greater variety and money saving, too, when leftovers are wisely used. For example, instead of ham sandwiches for two or three consecutive days when you want to use up leftovers, freeze some of the sandwiches and alternate their use with different varieties on hand in the freezer.

The following tips will help in making frozen sandwiches that are palatable and acceptable: Wrap each day's sandwiches in one package and make it air tight. Aluminum foil is recommended as a wrap because it is moisture, air and vapor proof. Frozen foods discolor, dry out and lose flavor if air gets into the package.

Vary breads from day to day. Use pumpernickel, raisin, rye, fruit and nut breads, buns, hard rolls or frankfurter rolls as well as white and whole wheat sandwich breads.

Prevent filling from soaking into bread by using butter or

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Spanking Stimulates His Wife And She Seems To Want More

DEAR HELEN:
This may sound kinky, but you've got a lot of common sense, she here goes:

My wife and I are both 24 and have no kids. We seem to have a more liberated marriage than our friends, but one day I proved I was a chauvinist pig at heart. Sal and I had a big argument and she got so bitchy that I took her over my knee and spanked her — hard!

I was sorry the minute I let her go, but she got all sexually heated up. For the last week, she's been doing all sorts of irritating things, as though she's asking for a repeat performance.

Isn't this pretty weird for an intelligent, mentally healthy woman? I think slapping your wife around degrades her and I couldn't bring myself to it again. But I can't stand her sudden meanness either.

In two years of marriage and three of going together, she has always appeared straight. What can I do? — STRAIGHT SAM

DEAR SAM:

The obvious, for a liberated couple: together discuss husband-wife spankings, what kind of feelings they inspire, and the big question: Why?

Your wife may only want a playful whack to liven things up — and that's far from sado-masochism. But if she "bitches" you into beating her (or keeps on trying), that's another dish of tease. It could cause trouble sex won't cure.

You might remind her of the first rule in a good love relationship: Don't insist on anything that completely turns your mate off. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We are forever hearing and reading that smokers should have their rights, which "No Smoking" signs remove. What they don't realize is that they invariably hold their cigars and cigarettes in a way that smoke blows away from them and on to the nearest innocent bystander. Or else they put lighted cigarettes in an ash tray and let them burn down, which creates a terrible stench.

Last night, in a nice restaurant, a man near us held his cigar at the edge of his table so that the heavy smoke completely engulfed us and our food. Women on the other side were waving their cigarettes in the same fashion. You'll notice no smoker ever holds the burning weed directly under his own nose!

To avoid an unpleasant scene, we got up and left a delicious meal unfinished. What else could we have done? — MRS. H. K.

DEAR MRS. K.:

You could have requested another table. After all, nonsmokers have rights, and many restaurants recognize them these days by providing special haze-free areas.

Thanks for pointing out an annoying habit among "addicts." Smokers often seem unaware that when they hold their cigarettes or cigars away from their own noses, other nearby noses are getting the fumes full force. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Most people get upset because newspaper pictures don't do them justice, but I'm the other way around. I have a face that takes well to newsprint, and my photos are always extremely flattering. So much so that people don't recognize me. (Or ask if the pic was taken 20 years ago, if they're catty.) It's gotten so that I dread to meet people who know me only by my picture, and, since I talk to a number of clubs in my work with a big organization, that's bad! Should I mention that my pictures do me more than justice, or just accept their astonished stares — GROUP ORGANIZER

DEAR G.O.:

If you never take a bad picture, then perhaps you're better looking than you think. Knock off the self-consciousness and get on with your career. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Darby Ann Auerbach Will Marry

margarine on both slices of bread.

Following are some filling ingredients that freeze well: hard cooked egg yolk, canned or cooked chicken, turkey, fish, deviled ham, dried beef, bologna, salami, boiled ham, raisins, peanut butter, mustard, chili sauce.

Following are ingredients that do not freeze well. Avoid using these sandwiches to be frozen: hard cooked egg white, cottage cheese, cooked bacon, fresh vegetables, preserves, jellies and jams, mayonnaise, salad dressing, onions, tomato slices, lettuce.

Nutrition should be a consideration. Lunch should furnish one-third of the body's daily requirements. Sandwiches with low protein fillings should be supplemented by cubes of cheese, hard cooked eggs, cottage cheese salads, sliced cold cuts, beans, peas, nuts.

Seasonings may change in strength during freezing: they should be used sparingly and added at serving time if necessary.

Try to keep a 5-day cycle of different sandwiches on hand. Arrange the production line in this order: sliced bread, butter or margarine (at room temperature), filling, aluminum foil cut in squares that will allow a fold over tuck to shut out air. A sandwich spreader helps speed up the job.

Plan to use the sandwiches within two to three weeks.

Greg Herrera of Los Angeles was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Lance, Greg and Dan Sitts of Sacramento, the bridegroom's brothers; and Peter and Bill Van Arnum of San Anselmo, the bride's brothers.

Following a trip along the Mendocino Coast the couple will live in Davis.

Janet was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and the University of California at Davis. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. William Van Arnum of Westfield, N.J., and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hove of Dorces-ter, Mass.

Richard is a graduate of Mira Loma High School in Sacramento, and U.C. at Davis, where he is now employed. He also attended American River College in Sacramento. Stephen Sitts is also his brother, and he is the grandson of Mrs. Ethel Sitts of Carson City, Nev.

For the ceremony the bride wore her mother's wedding dress with heirloom lace from the 1890s.

General Motors Considers Choice Of New President

DETROIT (UPI) — Three weeks from today, directors of General Motors Corp. will select successors to two of the highest paid executive posts at the world's largest auto company.

They'll choose between Elliott M. "Pete" Estes and Richard L. Terrell, both executive vice presidents, for a man to become GM's 15th president and replace the retiring Edward N. Cole who was paid $833,000 in salaries and bonuses last year.

Cole reaches mandatory retirement age of 65 on Sept. 17 and will end his 44-year career on Sept. 30, the day his successor is chosen.

GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg, the highest-paid U.S. executive at $923,000 last year, turns 65 on Nov. 24 and will retire at the end of that month.

Speculation centers most around Cole's successor since Gerstenberg's heir apparent is Thomas M. Murphy, the 58-year-old vice chairman. That selection may also come Sept. 30, observers say, to give the new leadership the chance to make a smoother transition.

Observers give the early nod to Estes, 58, partly because he followed the traditional route up the executive ladder through the ranks of the automotive engineers and as general manager of the Pontiac and Chevrolet divisions. Terrell, 55, began his ascent to the top through non-automotive operations.

The same observers say, however, the GM directors could break with tradition this year, one of the most disastrous in the company's history. GM's profits of $426 million in the first half of the year were off almost 74 per cent from a year ago and the worst in 25 years.

The changes are more than just a game of executive musical chairs because of the very size of GM. It is the industry leader with one of every two cars sold in the United States bearing a GM nameplate and is often the industry's spokesman.

The move into the president's suite will vault either Estes or Elliott from outside the general public's view into the spotlight. Cole, president since October of 1967, has often been at the center of controversy over auto emissions, the Wankel rotary engine and the ill-fated Chevrolet Corvair.

Cole's successor had been expected to be chosen today at the regular September board meeting in New York City, but the big change won't come until Sept. 30.

That meeting is the normal October meeting, but was moved up one week because, according to one GM public relations official, "several board members indicated they might be out of the country in October." Not too coincidentally, that's the same day Cole ends his GM career.

3 Widely Divergent Artists On Display In Mill Valley

By ADA GARFINKEL
Three artists with widely divergent styles, points of view, and media are this month's featured artists at the Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley.

Mysteriously compelling with great linear vitality, Suzanne Gomberg's figure drawings engage the viewer in both visual and psychological tensions and interaction.

Mrs. Gomberg received her training at the Chicago Art Institute and later taught there. She has a profound knowledge of the structure of the human figure and its articulations.

Her figures, male and female, are usually presented as torso studies in groupings of two or three, placed above each other, back to back or partially overlapping. Some drawings are rendered in black charcoal softened and highlighted with white pastel; others are elaborately massed in networks of fine-line ink drawing. Three recent pictures are in feathery layers of colored pastel.

Mrs. Gomberg's drawings are not quick sketches but lengthy studies taking months to complete. Their impact lies in the ability of the artist to evoke both the individuality of each sitter as well as their interpersonal relationships during the work in progress.

Clues are seen in her series of "Sisters" — natural sisters and ethnic ones, or in the same model in triple pose and various moods. Also in the strangely haunting, civilized "Primate" and "The Philosophers" and in the two dream-like "Mirages."

The visual and dramatic overtones of these drawings are established by cropping, by triangular centering and overlapping of figures, by an arm or leg serving as a sharp, diagonal thrust, and by casting heads in shadow with the major portion of the figure reflecting a brilliant light source — frequently oblong or rectangular.

Though dramatic, Mrs. Gomberg's drawings are not theatrical, but a probing search for fundamental meaning.

Millicent Hickman's watercolor views of San Francisco are her response to atmospheric mood and color rendered in loose, shorthand notes.

Painted on location from favorite vantage points, Mrs. Hickman, who majored in art at Brown University in Rhode Island, focuses on the crowded rooftops of North Beach in wide-angled and close-up scenes; on Russian and Telegraph Hills, and on precipitous Lombard Street.

She also captures the burgeoning high-rises studding the skyline, and the "carpenter-Gothic" architecture of ancient Potrero Hill. Fog influences the cool, grayed hues in "City and Bay," and brilliant sunlight is reflected in her warm blues, yellow-greens and sparkling white in "Beyond the Gate."

Mrs. Hickman has lived and painted in Europe and locally and has studied and painted with well-known colorist George Post. Her work conveys his influence gracefully.

This critic's work is also on display, acrylic paintings in personally evolved colors and geometric and floral forms which generally define emblematic structures.

This exhibit will continue through Sept. 28 and may be seen weekdays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. Genesis Gallery is at 2 Miller Avenue on the second floor.

Federal Agency Is Under Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said today his agency is being investigated for alleged abuses of the civil service system.

Administrator Richard W. Velde said a probe by the agency's own inspector general, the Justice Department and the General Accounting Office did not involve charges of criminal misconduct.

He said he requested the Justice Department to investigate after the LEAA inspector general spent over a month looking into LEAA personnel practices and dealings with private consultants.

The Federal Times, a newspaper circulated primarily among government workers, has accused the agency of hiring outside consultants for work normally performed by career employees and transferring and demoting career workers who objected.

Velde, who was sworn into office last Thursday, said he ordered the internal investigation in his position as deputy administrator after receiving employee complaints and reviewing grants "that were brought to my attention."

SOUVENIR — Leather Wayang shadow puppets are mementoes of a busy four weeks of teaching and lecturing in Indonesia hospitals for Drs. Patricia M. and William L. Clark of Strawberry. She lectured and taught in pediatric hospitals and medical schools and he in orthopedic surgery at hospitals in Solo, Central Java, Indonesia with the CARE-Medico program.

MARIN COUPLE'S IMPRESSIONS

Indonesian Health Care Lags

By BARBARA HOSMER

Lack of facilities and too few doctors are the main reasons that medical care in Indonesia lags behind the U.S., a husband-and-wife team of physicians found this summer.

Indonesian doctors, nurses and technicians were very well trained, agreed William L. and Patricia M. Clark, now home in Strawberry after four weeks teaching and lecturing at Indonesian hospitals.

Five doctors cared for 300 patients, operated and treated emergencies six hours a day at the orthopedic surgery hospital in Solo where William Clark taught.

"There's no way you can do that anywhere," he said, adding that despite shortage of medical persons, the care was good. In fact, said the doctor who practices in San Rafael, surgical technicians there regularly do procedures that physicians do here. The U.S. is beginning to move that way, too, he pointed out.

The Clarks lectured and taught as part of the CARE-Medico program in Solo, Central Java, and traveled to nearby hospitals. Their 22-year-old son John, a law student, went for a vacation but found himself repairing CARE vehicles and amusing children in the pediatric ward, where his pediatrician mother taught.

The daily number of leg, arm and skull fractures amazed William Clark at the orthopedic hospital.

"I've never seen so many serious injuries. Injuries which would be a sensation here once a week I saw daily there."

"The traffic is unbelievable — bicycles, pedal taxis, motorcycles and cars going through them at 60 miles an hour. The collisions of bikes and cars were terrible," he said, "and kids falling out of trees."

Patricia Clark found problems created by malnutrition "overwhelming" among the pediatric ward children. In the government hospitals where the poorer people go, she saw diseases such as tuberculosis, diphtheria and polio which she hadn't seen since medical student days in the 1940s at the University of Rochester.

Often the children were brought in too late for much help, she said. "There was a high degree of vitamin A deficiency, which results in blindness. A child would be lying there blind and the mother would be blind, too." The diet of many, mainly rice and fruits, lacks needed variety.

But in the university hospitals, she saw more of the same problems. Marin children have, cases of leukemia and nephritis.

Public health diseases such as malaria, cholera, tetanus, tuberculosis and severe diarrhea, she said, are hard to treat in the mass because so much followup is needed and is not available.

"A case of malnutrition will improve in the hospital, but what happens after they go home? There is no way to follow up" because of lack of trained personnel, she said.

Lack of money handicaps the medical care, the doctors agreed. The government hospitals can only afford doctors a few hours each morning, and pediatric patients who couldn't pay for medicines weren't given them, Patricia Clark said.

She felt she was able to contribute with her specialty as an allergist because the young women there are giving up breast-feeding and giving babies cow and goat's milk, with some resulting milk allergies. Indonesian doctors were grateful for help, and she taught them how to do the skin tests for allergies.

William Clark said he liked having to practice very basic medical procedures without some of the refinements he might use here that aren't really essential to good bone healing. He liked the emergency nature of most of the cases, the "visibility" of the needs. He found it a shock to return here to patients sent in by insurance companies or lawyers to be checked in case they might have been injured in an accident.

Patricia Clark liked the "give and take" of learning and teaching in Indonesia. Both doctors found their students very interested, many wanting to come to study in the U.S.

William Clark laughed about taking his young interpreter into surgery for her first time, "but she got over it." Surgeons and the medical teams operated in bare feet, he said, showing a snapshot. "It was nice and cool that way."

William Clark spent last summer in Afghanistan with the Medico program, and said Indonesians generally had a better standard of sanitation and living.

The Clarks hope to return to Indonesia's "friendly people," but next summer both plan to go to Afghanistan as Medico volunteers again.

Three Marin Teen-Agers Hurt In Crash

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Three Marin County teen-agers remained in Sacramento hospitals today for treatment varying injuries following an accident Friday on Interstate 80 in Placer County.

David Healy, 19, of Mill Valley was reported in critical condition today in Sacramento Medical Center with severe head injuries, a hospital spokesman said. Two 19-year-old companions, Diane Tannenbaum of San Rafael and Eric Moller of Larkspur, were reported in satisfactory condition at Kaiser Hospital, Miss Tannenbaum with a broken foot and abrasions, Moller with a punctured lung and abrasions.

Two other teen-agers involved in the collision, Nancy Reichard of Corte Madera and Jana Barto of San Rafael, were treated for various injuries and released from Sacramento area hospitals following the accident at about 9 p.m. Friday.

California Highway Patrolman Ken Hunter said the five Marin teen-agers were riding in a car driven by Miss Reichard when the vehicle suddenly swerved into oncoming traffic, flipped over and smashed head-on into a pickup truck.

The teen-agers' vehicle then rolled over a 50-foot embankment, Hunter said.

The driver of the pickup truck was treated for minor injuries at a local hospital and released, according to Hunter.

Flower Lecture Set

David Wahler, president of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin, will lecture on bonsai chrysanthemums at 8 p.m. Sept. 18 at the Marinwood Community Center under sponsorship of the Marin Home and Garden Club.

Cheryl Hillebrand of San Rafael reads one of Golden Gate Transit's new minisigns being wrapped around bus stop markers to show riders how to use the system. Each of some 5,000 signs to be posted over the next six weeks shows routes that pass each stop, their destinations, main intermediate stops, frequency of service and hours of operation.

HOW TO GET THERE FROM HERE

Health Director Interviews Slated

Applicants for the directorship of the Marin County Health and Human Services Department were to be interviewed today with finalists to be considered tomorrow by county supervisors.

Supervisors have scheduled a closed session for 9 a.m. tomorrow to consider those given highest marks by an interview panel set up by the personnel office. The job pays $33,600 to $36,960 per year.

The position was held for a year by Betty L. Presley, who retired July 1. Since then, it has been filled by Donald Sanford as acting director. He was Miss Presley's chief aide.

The new director, when selected, will oversee more than 450 employees who work in welfare, public health, mental health and medical services. The director will be responsible for an annual budget of more than $18 million.

Pair Held For Nude Sunbathing

Marin's first nude sunbathing arrests in six weeks occurred over the weekend as a Mendocino County couple was taken into custody on a Tomales Bay beach north of Inverness.

Sheriff's deputies said a resident living above Chicken Coop Beach complained about the naked couple, and officers arrived at 2:10 p.m. to take them away.

Booked into Marin County Jail and released on $50 bail to appear Friday in Marin Municipal Court were Terence Patrick Flaherty, 26, and Jennifer Gail Smith, 22, both of Albion.

Cotati Planners To Study Outdoor Dining

The Cotati Planning Commission will consider authorizing outdoor dining facilities at the Inn of the Beginning and the Last Great Hiding Place during its 7:30 p.m. meeting today in City Hall.

The commission also is to decide whether ambulance dispatching offices are allowable uses in high density residential and professional zones. The case in point is the newly-organized Pioneer Ambulance Company, whose office on the Old Redwood Highway lies in such a zone.

Another San Quentin Stabbing

A San Quentin convict was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital after being stabbed twice last night as he returned to his cell from the evening meal.

A prison spokesman said Charles R. Martin, 28, was stabbed in the chest and abdomen shortly after dinner at 5:40 p.m. yesterday in D Section of the South Block.

Martin was stabbed with a prison-crafted "puncture-type weapon," probably a honed-down serving-ladle handle, according to spokesman Leo F. Shepherd.

There is no suspect, he said. Martin, the 53rd knife victim at the prison this year, is serving a 15-year sentence for attempted robbery in San Francisco. He was sentenced to the facility in 1971.

Woman Is Injured In Cycle Wreck

Darris L. Bertini, 18, of 15 Jules Drive, Novato suffered a fractured left leg in a car-motorcycle accident at Grant Avenue and Novato Boulevard at 8 p.m. Saturday, Novato police reported.

She was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Curtis P. Coffin, 21, of 50 Grande Vista, Novato.

Police said the motorcycle westbound on Novato Boulevard and a car driven by Martha C. Heidinger, 38, of 2410 Center Road, turning north onto Grant Avenue, collided.

The motorcycle reportedly was traveling without lights, officers said.

Miss Bertini was reported in satisfactory condition today at Novato General Hospital.

22 Tires Slashed At Novato Apartment

Tires were slashed on 22 cars at the apartment carport at 805 Diablo Avenue, Novato, between 11:45 p.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. yesterday, Novato police reported.

The damage was estimated at $1,950.

Why Not Let System Work For Nixon?

The American people were beginning to take comfort from evidence that our system of justice can work for all.

Men highly placed in the Nixon administration had been charged with crimes arising from misuse of the political process. Several of them already have gone to jail. Others were awaiting trial.

But now, doubt has been cast on whether justice is alike for all. Moreover, the doubt has been created by the man with the biggest stake in restoring public confidence in our system: President Gerald R. Ford.

WE DO NOT doubt that President Ford acted from sincere and deeply held convictions when he yesterday pardoned Richard M. Nixon in advance for any crimes he may have committed while in the White House. But, like the president's press secretary, Jerald F. terHorst, who resigned in protest, we cannot agree with the action.

A pardon in advance of conviction or even indictment is a most unusual proceeding. Richard Nixon has not admitted any crime. In a statement accepting the pardon, he admitted only that he had made "grave mistakes" in handling the Watergate matter. This scarcely got to the core of the issue.

We expected that, if ex-President Nixon were convicted of obstruction of justice or any other charge, the man he placed in the White House as his successor would pardon him.

That would have been an act of compassion. It would have been understandable — and, we believe, acceptable.

But the issuance of a pardon to a man not proved guilty is a strange step. By signing the "full, free and absolute pardon unto Richard Nixon for all offenses against the United States which he . . . has committed or may have committed or taken part in," President Ford in effect pleaded his predecessor guilty. But ex-President Nixon has not pleaded guilty.

PRESIDENT FORD cited the cruel punishment already suffered by Nixon and his family in the loss of the presidency and the anguish accompanying the long series of Watergate disclosures.

Even as he did so, the Nixons, with a Secret Service guard provided by the people of the United States, were en route from their San Clemente estate to the equally luxurious Palm Desert residence of presidential friend Walter Annenberg.

What Mr. Ford saw as justice for Nixon can scarcely be viewed in the same light by those others who "took the rap" for Watergate and have been indicted and/or convicted: John W. Dean III, John N. Mitchell, Herbert W. Kalmbach, John Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman, and the rest.

A SHORT TIME ago, President Ford proposed "conditional amnesty" for young men who went into hiding or fled the country to avoid the draft during the Vietnam War.

There was nothing conditional about the amnesty he granted Richard Nixon yesterday.

We think the former president should be entitled to trial, if he is charged with any crime. We think he should be entitled to the chance to clear his name. President Ford has denied him that chance.

The system is working for the others. Why does not Mr. Ford believe it would work for Richard M. Nixon?

Will Ford's Message Get Through To What Colleges Have Become?

ELKINS, W. Va. — Dropping a child off at college is a standard American milestone, in a line with starting school, graduating, getting the first job, getting married, and the downward path from there. And if dropping one off at one college does that, try dropping two off to start at two colleges in the same week. It will put a crack in your voice and take the spring out of your step.

But these days that awareness of cruel time is brought on not merely by the fact of being old enough to send them away to live more or less on their own. The thing that makes a short generation seem a century is the way colleges themselves have changed since we made the trip roughly a quarter-century ago.

I'M NOT SURE Mr. Ford had his personal experience in mind the other day when he talked at Ohio State about education. He went to Michigan during the early depression years, and I am referring back to the early postwar years. When he went, college was still reserved for a small percentage of Americans. But 29 years ago this month, the GI Bill was giving first impetus to the modern American notion that everybody should have a crack at college if he wants it, regardless of his family's ethnicity or economics.

It is an idea as revolutionary as any from Jefferson, Lenin or Mao. It has contributed not only to our remarkable standard of living and technically educated society but to our problems, too. An assembly-line worker's dissatisfaction, a welfare client's unwillingness to take a menial job grow directly out of their seeing so many educated others around them making good livings without getting their hands dirty.

The president seemed vaguely to be getting at this when he talked about a new partnership between education and labor and suggested that that team should make American energy independence one of its major goals.

And then, before he got off into a flight of poetry about Woody Hayes and the single wing and all those things close to his heart, he tossed out that surprising little compliment to the homeland of intellectual freedom, Communist China. Not long ago, any conservative Republican would surely have referred to education in China in such words as lock-step, fanatic or driven. He chose the positive phrasing for the same attributes.

Proposition 9 Couldn't Qualify Now Under Proposition 9

One of the many features of Proposition No. 9, the so-called political reform initiative which was approved by the voters in the primary election this year,

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Sept. 9, 1964

The Mill Valley City Council called for votes against Proposition 14, the initiative measure to outlaw the Rumford Fair Housing Act, Councilman George E. Wickham dissented.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, Republican presidential candidate, assailed the Democrats' "wild spending spree" and called for a reduction in income taxes.

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 9, 1954

A Marin County Grand Jury report held that some books on Tamalpais High School District library shelves "could not possibly have any value for improvement of the mind," but said it was up to the district "to clean its own house."

More than 500 were killed when an earthquake destroyed the Algerian town of Orleansville.

"THE AMERICAN free-enterprise system," he said, "is being challenged by disciplined and highly motivated young Chinese, dedicated to transforming their country into a major industrial power." And that, he implied, is worthy of emulation by our own youth.

About there is where the meaning of his speech sank in, along with the realization of how his message flies against the trend of our country's higher education in the past decade.

He was speaking in a week when parents were dropping sons and daughters off at schools where the students themselves had made the rules. They had decided for themselves whether to live in coed dormitories (and most had opted against it). They had chosen from an array of courses, many specifically created to entertain more than to educate them — a situation that came out of the student rebellions of the late '60s and has been prolonged, especially at private schools, by the fact that all-of-a-sudden education is a buyer's market.

They had unpacked their bags in dorm rooms overlooking breathtaking real estate, contrasted to the Quonset-hut habitat familiar to so many of their parents as students. (Please note my frank admission that envy creeps in here: My daughter's room opens on a pine-fringed lake, and my son can watch the leaves change along the ridge of Rich Mountain.)

IF I UNDERSTAND him correctly, Mr. Ford is saying we have had about enough of this laissez-faire, resort-complex approach to education, and it is about time we started getting serious again lest the Chinese and all those others overtake us. Enough of these courses in Zoroastrian yoga, he seems to say, and let's have more in the practical techniques of converting Colorado mountains to No. 2 fuel oil.

Hard to know whether he was speaking as a 1930s Big 10 graduate in reaction against modern educational permissiveness, or as a straight-arrow parent against the indulgence allowed today's young people, or merely as a Republican president who thinks his country may be backsliding in the religion of free enterprise. Perhaps all three.

I can hear him, but I suspect that in the dorms across the country they have their stereotypes turned up too loud.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

By EARL G. WATERS

Buried in the news by other seemingly more important things, with perhaps some mention in the business sections, is the story of action against five major title companies by State Insurance Commissioner Gleeson L. Payne.

It was probably the first disciplinary action taken against title insurance companies in the history of the state. It certainly was the most noteworthy. The fact is that "Tige" Payne wound up and socked them with fines totaling nearly a half million dollars.

THE PENALTIES were largely for violations of the state's anti-rebate laws. Early this year Payne had made it clear that unfair competitive practices would not be tolerated. He said methods by which title companies were inducing lenders and real estate agents to steer title business to them must cease.

Pointing out that it was strange to him that two companies had managed to corral two-thirds of the business, he said he thought competition would surface "if there is no personal benefit to the lender or seller in the selection of a title company."

"As it has been the seller, motivated by rebate enrichment, may steer business to one having neither the best insurance product nor the best price."

So that there would be no misunderstanding of what he meant, he issued a 10-page bulletin to all of the companies. In it he spelled out exactly what he would consider improper huckstering in the future. He also made it clear he intended to investigate complaints and would take a tough stand on violations.

Surplus Of Variances In Corte Madera

The continuing "Rape of the Ridge" might have been a more appropriate caption for the Sept. 4 news item covering one of the decisions made by the Corte Madera Town Council the previous evening.

In spite of an appeal by a group of residents, the town council approved five building variances on a single ridge site. The net result will be an additional "eyesore" on one of the few remaining marvelous Marin nature areas.

Myopia in terms of preserving and protecting the heritage of future generations from being exposed to a mass of structures in close proximity to each other appears to be a chronic Corte Madera affliction.

It would also appear that a surplus of variances exists in Corte Madera. In fact, there may be a few laying around that have never been used. Anybody for a quick variance? Apply to the town of Corte Madera.

Objects To Advertising Of Small Firearms

The ad in the Sept. 4 edition (page 5) of the Independent Journal shows small arms for sale.

In these violent times do we need such obvious encouragement to act irresponsibly? If cigarette ads can be banned from TV as a health hazard, shouldn't there be concern for the health hazards from the sale of weapons?

The I-J apparently has a policy of not accepting ads for selected X-rated films. One wonders why you have no sensitivity in the matter of advertising, and the possible promotion thereby, of violence.

Mill Valley Tax Rate Reduction Ignored

The Mill Valley City Council has authorized me to convey to you our disappointment with the coverage recently given to our official action setting the 1974-75 tax rate.

The facts of the situation are these: On Aug. 21, the council set the city tax rate at $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation, a reduction of 13.3 cents from the prior year, and 17.5 cents below the maximum tax rate we are authorized to set under SB 90.

Unfortunately, your newspaper headlined its coverage of our action with the erroneous contention that the tax rate had been raised five cents. Your confusion apparently resulted from the fact that the council had previously considered, in open session, setting the rate at $2.70. The rate was finally set at $2.75, however, when extremely high bids were received for the Mill Valley Public Safety Building, a much needed facility which the voters of this community have overwhelmingly endorsed. We concluded that it would be fiscally prudent to raise additional funds over a period of years to offset the funds we will have to take this year from reserves in order to construct the Public Safety Building.

Not only was your coverage of our action misleading, but it appeared on page 4 of your newspaper, whereas every other city in the county received first page coverage whether they raised or lowered their tax rate or kept it the same as last year. And this despite the fact that Mill Valley lowered its tax rate more this year than did any other city in the county save one.

U. S. Needs To Take Steps To Safeguard Its Diplomats

MURDER TOLL OF U.S. DIPLOMATS. It's mounting. With the guerrilla attack on the American Embassy in Cyprus, 11 United States Foreign Service officers have been slain at their posts abroad in three years.

These murders do not take place in countries where the governments are strong; only places where the governments are weak.

Can something be done to stop them? Our policy so far has been to keep hands off and hope that the local regimes will protect U.S. diplomats and citizens. But when they are unable to do so, shouldn't the U.S. government do more to safeguard its diplomats?

MR. FORD'S Budget Dilemma. Here are the intractable facts:

The president knows — and most economists agree — that reductions in federal spending are essential to cut inflation.

At least 74 per cent of the federal budget is "uncontrollable" — fixed by past congresses and increasing yearly.

Inflation will remain uncontrollable unless Congress will review and alter past spending commitments.

Will it happen? Only if public opinion decisively says yes.

GETTING BLACK-WHITE statistics in

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

Richard Nixon's accountant and tax lawyer disagree over whether he's broke. Can't that man even count his money without a show of hands?

Another theory that has failed says if we have a president of one party and a Congress run by the other, they'll keep each other out of mischief.

Amnesty means forgetting, not forgiving — and President Ford hopes the VFW won't forget that.

Ford is waiting for Cuba to make a move before softening relations with Castro. We'll know things are easing up if the White House gets a box of cigars from Havana.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"This thing of getting rid of a man is all right, but there is one bad feature to it that few of the people ever realize. That is, that unfortunately every one of them is replaced by someone else."

"If it just was not for that, this resignation business would be immense."

to brokers at a rate cheaper than the broker charged his clients.

First American Title Co. of Santa Ana was fined $60,000, while Transamerica Title was fined $37,500 and Western Title Insurance Company was fined $12,500, all for improper rebates.

PAYNE SAID his investigations were continuing and several other companies are involved.

"Where we find violations, we intend to levy appropriate fines. If violations continue, we will take stronger action."

Asked what he meant by action stronger than some of the stiff fines meted out, Payne said: "The giving and taking of rebates is a criminal offense. In addition, the insurance commissioner can take action to revoke the license of an offending company if it persists in violating the laws."

perspective. It is a fact that the gap between the average earnings of blacks and whites is widening. But when you center only on that single statistic you get a limited, misleading picture. The other pertinent statistics, usually neglected, are these:

More than 50 per cent of black families have moved into the economic and educational middle class in the past 10 years.

The average earnings of black families are rising yearly but not quite so fast as those of white families.

In 1961 only 13 per cent of blacks earned $10,000 or more yearly. Now more than 30 per cent earn that amount.

GOOD NEWS on American health. While congress is debating the need for an enlarged health insurance plan, the state of health in the United States is improving. The death rate continues to drop — from 9.5 deaths per 1,000 population to 9 deaths per 1,000 in the past three years.

Life expectancy is longer. A child born last year could expect to live 71.3 years.

The overall conclusion is that Americans are healthier than ever.

OPPORTUNITY for moral leadership. Quote of the week from John Gardner, chairman, Common Cause:

"Congress will soon pass a bill for public financing of election campaigns. Mr. Nixon said he would veto any such bill. If Mr. Ford signs the bill into law, that will become a clear sign that he intends to clean up the political process."

THE COMEBACK of governors. They are no longer running scared. It is a good time to be a governor. State finances are in better shape, far fewer deficits. Governors are not having to urge higher taxes for the coming year.

This means that most governors running for re-election are expected to win in November.

CAMPAIGN REFORM in the states. It continues to be evident that state governments are responding more rapidly and more vigorously to public demand for political housecleaning than Congress.

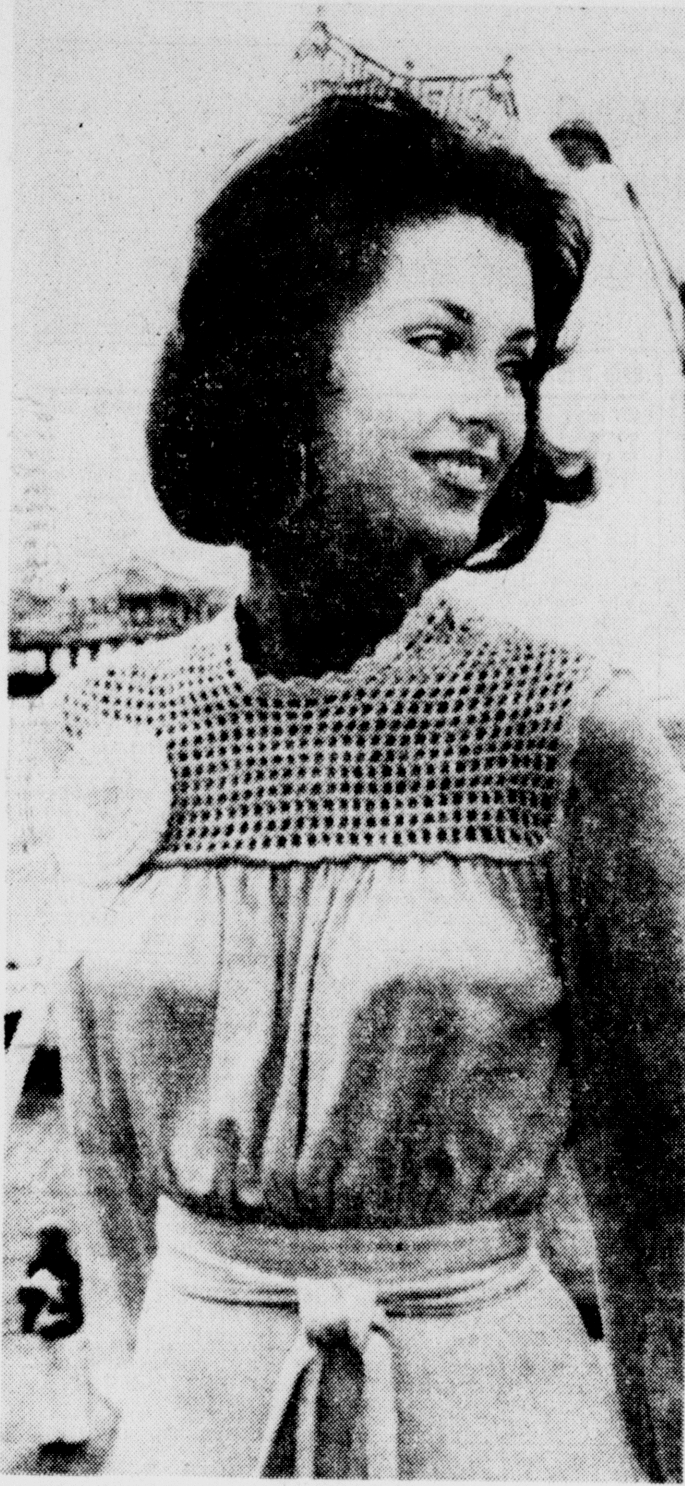

Latest report shows that 67 important campaign finance reform measures have been adopted by 40 state legislatures during the past year and a half.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Depend upon it, that if a man talks of his misfortunes there is something in them that is not disagreeable to him; for where there is nothing but pure misery, there never is any mention of it. — Samuel Johnson.

There are 46 million American children in the public schools, and the vast majority of them have no realistic alternative except to stay there and hope that the experience will somehow help to prepare them for adulthood. — John Egerton.

THERE SHE IS — Miss America for 1975, Shirley Cothran of Fort Worth, Tex., smiles for photographers as she stands on the sunporch of her hotel overlooking Atlantic City's Boardwalk yesterday. She was crowned late Saturday. (UPI Telephoto)

New Miss America Was Really Nervous

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — When Shirley Cothran walked down the runway as the Miss America before over 80 million television viewers, the only thing she could think was "Jeepers! Johnny Carson is probably watching me."

Miss Cothran, 21, of Fort Worth, Tex., laughed yesterday about her nervousness during the nation's largest beauty contest. Each time she went before television, she said she repeated a little prayer.

"I thought, 'Lord, just help me not to trip and fall and to do my best,'" the 36-23-36 beauty said. During the preliminaries, she won a trophy in a bathing suit contest.

Miss Cothran, a teetotaler and devout Baptist, said she had never wanted to try marijuana, because "I believe my body is the temple of God, and I wouldn't want to harm it."

She said she does not smoke and has never taken a drink in her life — "I don't even like the smell of alcohol."

Miss Cothran said when she was crowned Saturday night she thought about television personality Johnny Carson because he, along with Pat Nixon, was one of the persons she most admired.

"Before the talent competition, I tried not to think of those millions of people watching. I thought, 'Jeepers! Johnny Carson is probably watching me.' I didn't think of anyone else but Johnny Carson," she said.

The new Miss America, who entered as Miss Texas, favors legal abortions for rape victims or when the life of a mother or child is at stake, and she supports the Equal Rights Amendment.

But she said she would "rather not deal with" questions about amnesty for draft evaders or about other aspects of the women's movement.

Asked if she was a feminist, she replied:

"I enjoy being a woman. I think I am very feminine in my own way. I enjoy putting on a pair of cut-off jeans and putting my hair in a pony tail."

She said President Ford is "in the most exciting position" in the nation. She said former First Lady Pat Nixon was the woman she most admired, and Mrs. Cothran replied "yes" when asked if she sympathized with Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon.

Control Of Inflation Will Be Key For GOP Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will have to come up with quick and concrete legislative suggestions to control inflation in the country, or Republicans may face election day troubles in November.

By vowing to stay in session the rest of the year to handle any Ford economic proposals, the Senate Democrats have set up Ford and his party for a campaign assault no matter how he decides to handle the nation's economic ills.

If Ford does not take the Democrats up on their offer to produce fast economic recovery programs, he can be criticized during the election campaigns. If he does offer long-range programs, the proposals themselves can become a springboard for the political assault.

But Ford has already indicated that dramatic moves are unlikely. Most of his economic advisers favor theories which rely on budget control and other gradual approaches instead of dramatic moves like wage and price controls.

Ford has specifically ruled out wage and price controls.

The White House said after the Senate Democrats' offer to stay in session that Ford still hopes no lame duck session of Congress will be necessary. It said any initiatives this year will be taken by the executive branch alone or will be relatively simple legislative proposals.

Congress also seems set to defeat Ford's first substantive anti-inflation request, a three-month delay in a 5.5 per cent pay raise for federal employees.

Ford has requested the delay in the Oct. 1 raise, but his action can be overturned by a simple vote of either house of Congress. Momentum is building in both houses against the delay.

Ford has also said he would send Congress a multibillion dollar list of expenditures that he wants delayed or rescinded. But under the new Budget and Impoundment Control Act, Congress can block any Ford move in this direction and it is likely the list will contain many expenditures sacred to some legislators.

Crowds Better At Camel Races

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (AP) — Incidents of vandalism and disturbing the peace were down at the National Championship Camel Races here, Sheriff Bob Delcarlo says.

Delcarlo said after the races ended yesterday that the addition of 32 officers to his force helped keep the crowds quieter.

Some arrests were made, but most were for infractions of a town ordinance prohibiting drinking on the streets, Delcarlo said.

City officials had threatened to kill the races if there had been a recurrence of troubles which had plagued the events the past few years.

Exile To Negotiate With Cuba Officials

MIAMI (AP) — A controversial Cuban exile who has sailed illegally to Cuba several times in the past was reported back on the island today attempting to negotiate the release of a number of political prisoners.

Ramon Donesteviz, 38, a Miami boatbuilder who has been involved in a number of scrapes with American authorities, left this country from Marathon, in the Florida Keys, yesterday, according to his son Ramon Jr.

The circumference of the earth across the equator has been estimated at 24,894 miles.

"My father sailed on a 28-foot boat with three men and three women aboard and he has reached Matanzas," on Cuba's north coast east of Havana, said the young Donesteviz.

This was confirmed later by a close friend, who said he was in radio contact with the Donesteviz craft. The friend, who asked not to be identified, said Donesteviz expected to meet with Cuban authorities, possibly even Premier Fidel Castro, to ask for the release of prisoners and discuss "other political questions."

Farmhand Killed In Barracks Fire

RICHGROVE (UPI) — One man was killed last night when an arson-caused fire heavily damaged a farm labor barracks near here.

Tulare County fire department officials said the blaze broke out shortly before 11:30 p.m., at the barracks which housed 28 farm laborers. They said 27 of the men managed to flee the fire without injury.

Firefighters found the body of the 28th resident lying on the floor in one of the rooms. He was dragged out of the building but efforts to revive him failed. Officials withheld his identity pending notification of next of kin.

THREE FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT PG&E RATE INCREASES.

ONE:

With only one exception, PG&E rate increases in the past three years have been to offset the higher prices we, PG&E, must pay for fuel oil and natural gas.

TWO:

PG&E rates must reflect the general overall inflation which affects everyone. We can no more control the costs of materials and services we have to pay for than you can control the cost of food, clothing, interest rates, etc.

THREE:

PG&E rates are among the lowest in the nation. Of the 13 largest U.S. cities, only Dallas and Houston have lower gas and electric rates than San Francisco.

Another Fact: You can hold down your utility bill by using energy wisely...conserving when and wherever you can.

Food Poisoning Follows Banquet

CHICAGO (UPI) — At least 90 persons suffered food poisoning following a Little League baseball banquet yesterday and were treated at several South Side hospitals, police said.

Most of the victims were released from the hospitals. It was not known if anyone was seriously hurt, authorities said.

Police said about 600 persons attended the Back of the Yards Little League awards dinner at the St. Michael Archangel Church. They ate a catered dinner of Polish sausages, sauerkraut, chicken and ravioli.

Two Offices Are Damaged By Fire

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A fast-moving fire heavily damaged two offices and caused an estimated $50,000 damages early today to a two-story building.

Arson investigators said the blaze may have been set to cover a burglary.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Disease Carried By Blackflies Leads To Suffering In Africa

Perhaps no area in the world equals the human suffering, deprivation and desolation found in the savanna and rain forests of Africa.

Small children and often toddlers, can be seen leading blind parents or relatives, and when the children reach their prime of life, the cycle will repeat itself, and they, too, will be blind.

More than 20 million are affected by onchocerciasis (river-blindness), a disease which is transmitted by the bite of a bloodsucking blackfly (Simulium damnosum). The adult female of the species deposits her eggs on vegetation hanging along the banks of the fast-flowing river. Since the life cycle of the blackfly is repeated over and over, it is almost impossible to eradicate the species.

INHABITANTS HAVE abandoned some of the more fertile African areas where the disease is endemic. Swarms of hungry flies have driven men and livestock away from rivers and have rendered the land uninhabitable. But even as the people retreat, the blackflies follow. The desperate natives burn the grass and deforest the watershed area, which becomes eroded. A few foci of these microbes also exist in Central and South America.

Both old and young people find it difficult to avoid bites of the simuliids, which are the source of the infection. On biting, the infective insect releases a tiny worm which migrates through the victim's skin. Concentrations of growing adults produce lumps or nodules, in which the worms live and give birth. Premature aging and an intense, intolerable itching are characteristic symptoms of river-blindness.

Ocular complications occur when the embryo filarial worms enter the eye, causing lesions that produce blindness.

DIETHYLCARBAMAZINE KILLS the microfilariae, but not the adult worms. Another filarial weapon is suramin, which kills both adult worms and some of the microfilaria. But it is toxic and difficult to use. And even if these drugs could fully cure the disease, there aren't enough doctors and medical personnel in areas of its prevalence to administer them.

Aerial spraying and applications of DDT into larger streams and rivers have proved effective, but do not eliminate the vectors in small connecting bodies of water. Control is further complicated because in the dry season, blackflies are capable of traveling 100 miles to another source of water.

GALLBLADDER DISTRESS B. D. writes: Are hot or cold applications best for an inflamed gallbladder?

REPLY: Hot applications may offer some relief, but surgery is more satisfactory.

BULGE IN THE HEART D. L. writes: What is an aneurysm of the heart?

REPLY: A bulge in the heart due to a localized area of weakness in the muscles. The condition usually follows a heart attack and occurs where the fibers of the organ die from lack of nourishment.

VITAMIN AFTERTASTE A reader writes: A few hours after I take my vitamin pills, I feel like throwing up. Is this unusual?

Public Notice

OFFICIAL NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR THE PURCHASE OF BONDS, EAST SAN RAFAEL DRAINAGE ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 1, SUPPLEMENTAL ASSESSMENT, CITY OF SAN RAFAEL, MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, Marin County, California, located in the City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, at the hour of 2:00 o'clock P.M. on the 16th day of September, 1974, for the purchase of an estimated $288,001.07 principal amount of bonds for East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, Supplemental Assessment, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California. Said bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared at said time and place.

These bonds are authorized to be issued, and the assessments are authorized to be levied, under the provisions of Resolution of Intention No. 4796 of the City Council of the City of San Rafael adopted on the 5th day of August, 1974, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The Resolution of Intention provides with relation to said bonds as follows: NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that serial bonds to represent unpaid assessments and bearing interest at a rate of not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum shall be issued herein in the manner provided in Division 10 of the Streets and Highways Code, the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, the last installment of which shall mature fourteen (14) years from the 2nd day of July next succeeding ten (10) months from their date.

MATURITIES AND AMOUNT OF BONDS: Said bonds will be in the estimated amount of $288,001.07. All bidders, however, by submission of a bid, agree to purchase the total amount of bonds that may be issued. Bids will be calculated and award will be made on the basis of the following maturities regardless of the exact amount of the bond issue. The exact amount of the issue will be determined by subtracting from the estimated amounts stated herein the amount of assessments paid in cash during the thirty (30) day cash payment period following recordation of the assessment. The estimated maturity schedule of the bonds will be as follows:

Maturity Date of Bonds	Total Amount Maturing
July 2, 1976	$8,001.07
July 2, 1977	20,000.00
July 2, 1978	20,000.00
July 2, 1979	20,000.00
July 2, 1980	20,000.00
July 2, 1981	20,000.00
July 2, 1982	20,000.00
July 2, 1983	20,000.00
July 2, 1984	20,000.00
July 2, 1985	20,000.00
July 2, 1986	20,000.00
July 2, 1987	20,000.00
July 2, 1988	20,000.00
July 2, 1989	20,000.00
July 2, 1990	20,000.00
TOTAL	$288,001.07

NOTE: In the first year, Bond No. 1 is in the amount of $1,001.07. There will be two $1,000 bonds in addition and one $5,000.00 bond. In all other years, the first five bonds maturing each year are in $1,000 denominations and all other bonds are in $5,000 denominations.

DATE OF BONDS AND INTEREST RATE: Bonds are to be dated the 1st day of November, 1974, and will bear interest from said date. Interest rate is fixed in the Resolution of Intention at not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum. Such interest shall be evidenced by coupons attached to each bond, and each of said coupons shall represent six months' interest on the bond to which it is attached. The first coupon will be for interest from November 4, 1974, to January 2, 1976.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Said bonds are authorized to be issued by the City Council of the City of San Rafael, Marin County, California, by Resolution of Intention No. 4796 and proceedings subsequent thereto. The purpose of the supplemental assessment is to provide for the additional costs and expenses in connection with the acquisition of real property in said assessment district. These acquisitions are within the boundaries of the assessment district designated, "East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California," and reference for details is made to the proceedings for the formation and completion of said assessment district.

PAYMENT: Both principal and interest are payable in lawful money of the United States at the office of the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

CALL: All bonds are callable pursuant to the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 twice each year. No bonds may be called except on July 2 or January 2 and there must be a sixty-day notice of call. Any bond called will have interest to date of call and a premium of five per cent (5%) of the principal amount.

AUTHORITY FOR ISSUANCE: Said bonds were authorized to be issued by the proceedings in said assessment district and said assessment district was organized and consummated under the provisions of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and bonds provided to be issued under the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 of the State of California.

SECURITY: Said bonds are payable from the redemption fund provided by law which is secured by all of the unpaid assessments within the boundaries of said district. Said bonds are further secured by a limited guarantee on the part of the entity which issued said bonds. Under the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, any real property on which the owners have failed to pay installments of assessments as they fall due is sold for delinquencies by the City in the same manner as real property is sold for delinquent taxes. It is the duty of the City of San Rafael to bid such property in at such tax sale. It then becomes the duty of the City to transfer to the Redemption Fund the amount of the purchase. In the event there is not sufficient money in the General Fund to transfer this amount into the Redemption Fund, it becomes the mandatory duty of the City to levy a tax up to 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation of property within the boundaries of the City of San Rafael sufficient in amount to pay for the delinquencies. It becomes the continuing duty of the City, throughout the life of the bond issue, to levy such a tax and to pay for the installments upon property sold to the City for delinquencies. The maximum levy which the City is obligated to make in any one year is 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation. The estimated assessed valuation of all taxable property in the City of San Rafael for the fiscal year 1974-75 is $225,889,062.00. Ten cents on the $100.00 would therefore raise in the City of San Rafael, the sum of $225,889.06 which is more than sufficient to cover the maximum amount of principal and interest accruing in any one year of the bond issue if a ten cent (10c) levy should be necessary.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of the law firm of Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, 1322 Webster Street, Oakland, California, 94612, approving the validity of said bonds will be furnished to the successful bidder without charge. In the opinion of Counsel, interest on the bonds is exempt from all federal income taxes, and from State of California personal income taxes, under presently existing statutes, regulations and court decisions, and the bonds are also exempt from all California taxes except inheritance, gift and franchise taxes.

HIGHEST BID: The interest rate for all bonds shall be seven per cent (7%). The interest payable on any interest payment date may, however, be represented by one or more coupons. Unless all bids are rejected, the bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the issuer, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting the amount of any premium paid from or adding the amount of any discount to the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: The City of San Rafael reserves the right at its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid.

PROMPT AWARD: The City of San Rafael will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than forty-eight (48) hours after expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals.

PROMPT DELIVERY: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the office of the City Treasurer, City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, but not earlier than the date of said bonds. Successful bidder, by making a bid, agrees to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within forty-eight (48) hours after notification by City that the bonds are ready for delivery, but bidder is not obligated to take delivery earlier than the date of the bonds. The successful bidder shall have the right at his option to cancel his offer to purchase if the bonds are not tendered for delivery within 45 days from the date of the bonds.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds herein offered for sale. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, and endorsed "Proposal for Bonds, East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, Supplemental Assessment, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $5,000 drawn on a bank or trust company

ISFAHAN: BEAUTY OF PERSIA

It's the architectural showplace of Persia. Like an oasis in the central dry plateau of Iran, it abounds in flowing streams, lush colorful gardens, lovely historical turquoise domes and minarets. Isfahan is also a city of craftsmen, vast bazaars that wind for miles, silversmiths that tap out their delicate scrollwork while coppersmiths shape trays and pitchers with clanging hammers.

AGAINST CONNORS

Fans Cheer On Rosewall

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — The throng at the Wimbledon final in July rooted in vain for Ken Rosewall to beat Jimmy Connors. The throng at the West Side Tennis Club today will root for Ken again.

For Kenny is its man. There are all the years ahead for the brash, sometimes abrasive Connors, to win here.

But the 22-year-old American looks upon every match as a personal war to be won, be the surface grass, clay, or broken bottles. The name of the game to him is "win"—and it matters not if the man on the other side of the net is, in his words, "a legend like Rosewall," or another 22-year-old like himself, Roscoe Tanner.

Connors took out Tanner in straight sets yesterday, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4. He took out the 39-year-old Rosewall in the Wimbledon final, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Today he intends taking out Rosewall again.

Connors is sorry his bride-to-be, Chris Evert, lost her chance to add the U.S. Open crown to her Wimbledon diadem, but his pride in her could not be diminished by Chris' valiant, yet failing, effort here against Evonne Goolagong.

Chris, down 6-0, 4-3 and a service break when rain halted play on Friday, gave the record crowd of 15,402 yesterday an unforgettable match, fighting off two match points to win the second set in tie-break, then see it all get away in a heart stopping third set when Evonne refused to crack and won it all, 6-0, 6-7, 6-3.

While Jimmy was consoling Chris, Rosewall was busy repeating his Wimbledon quarter final win over Forest Hills' defending champion John Newcombe.

As usual, Rosewall dropped the first set. As usual, he came on to win 6-7, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3.

"I thought John didn't know

MAN IN THE NET — Down but not out was Jimmy Connors yesterday who was caught with his tongue hanging out during a spill at the net. Connors gained a title match against Ken Rosewall of Australia by defeating fellow American Roscoe Tanner, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4 in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y.

what to do," Rosewall said. "When I took the lead in the second set, John lost his rhythm on service. He couldn't decide whether to hit winners or keep the ball in play."

While Newk was making up his mind, Kenny was entering the final to get his third crack at the Forest Hills title. He won here in 1956—yep, 1956—and 14 years later, in 1970 over Tony Roche, after losing the first set, of course.

For Evonne, today is her opportunity to pick up the only major crown she has missed. Winner in France and Wimbledon in 1971, champion of Australia this year, the 23-year-old Aussie now faces Billie Jean King for the $22,500 top prize and all the endorsement money that goes with the U.S. title.

Billie Jean wants her fourth Forest Hills title badly, too. She has had no trouble reaching the final, and has been able to spread her gospel of women's lib without harming her play. But it is possible that Evonne, who had to fight for her life against Miss Evert, can find that that battle-hardening match will benefit her against the 30-year-old Mrs. King.

Maas Wins Race At Sears Point

Walt Maas of Mountain View won the big-bore production race in a tiny Datsun, and Marin County drivers Terry Visger, Harald Kirberg and Bob Earl each took an event yesterday to highlight the Sports Car Club of America's Gold Rush divisional championships at Sears Point Raceway.

Maas, racing a Datsun 260-Z with engine displacement three times smaller than some cars on the track, passed Dave Mock's Corvette 427 on the second lap and was never headed. Maas covered the 15 laps on the 2.5-mile circuit at an average speed of 79.13 mph.

Mock, of Oakland, finished fourth behind Gary Carlen of Alameda in a 350 Corvette and Lee Mueller of Lynwood in the Jaguar V-12 out of Huffaker Engineering in San Rafael.

Visger, of San Rafael, also racing for Huffaker, defeated Mueller in the medium-size production race after they exchanged the lead several times. Visger took command in his MG-B three laps from the end

NFL Season May Already Be Over For Ailing S.F.

49ers' Spurrier Sidelined

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 1974 National Football League season may have ended for the San Francisco 49ers even before it started, but coach Dick Nolan doesn't see it that way at all.

In bowing to the powerful Los Angeles Rams, 17-7, yesterday the 49ers saw No. 1 quarterback Steve Spurrier suffer a shoulder separation which will sideline him for at least two months.

"Sure, it was a tough blow," said Nolan, a man who keeps his emotions pretty much under wraps, "but we have Joe Reed, who I think can develop into a pretty good pro quarterback. Right now, he's our No. 1."

Spurrier, the former Heisman Trophy winner from Florida, moved into the No. 1 spot this year — finally — following John Brodie's retirement. The 49ers figured right along that he was the man who would help them bounce back this year into a contender for the National Football Conference West title they won three years in a row before Los Angeles dethroned them in 1973.

"Reed wasn't that much behind Spurrier that he can't step in and do a job for us," said Nolan. "I'm not that worried."

That may be so, but what happens to the 49ers if Reed gets injured?

Behind him, as of the moment, are Dennis Morrison with a year's experience and rookie Tom Owen from Wichita State. Before Spurrier's injury, Nolan had to figure which of the two to keep and which to assign to the taxi squad.

While the San Francisco coach, or so it seems, acts as if he isn't concerned, there is every reason to believe the club will try to deal this week for an experienced quarterback, say someone like Darley Lamonica of the Oakland Raiders who doesn't figure to play much this season.

Of course, there is little or no chance the 49ers can get Lamonica from Al Davis, but there are a half dozen quarterbacks in the same position on other clubs who may be available in a trade for the right man or a future draft choice.

The Rams, meanwhile, are as set as a club can be for their regular-season league opener next Sunday against the Denver Broncos.

Using most of his regulars for three quarters, coach Chuck Knox saw a lot to inspire him as the Rams try to win a second straight division title. The defense did a good job of bottling up the 49ers offense, except for one lapse in the game, while the offense under quarterbacks John Hadl and James Harris churned out the yards when it had to in a good defensive struggle.

David Ray booted a 30-yard field goal near the end of the first half for a 3-0 edge. Jack Youngblood ran 54 yards with a recovered fumble (on Spurrier) in the first minute of the second half and Hadl threw 10 yards to Harold Jackson midway through the third quarter for

Los Angeles' 17 points. Reed swept five yards on a keeper with 4:41 left in the game for San Francisco's lone score.

Spurrier was hit by linebacker Ken Geddes on the seventh play of the third quarter while in the act of passing. Tackle Larry Brooks, following up on the play, then fell on Spurrier, causing the shoulder injury.

Spurrier goes to St. Mary's Hospital today for surgery and his chances of playing again before the middle of November seem slim.

Knox, who saw his team win its fifth straight exhibition game for a 5-1 record, liked his defensive unit best of all.

"We played Ram defense in this game," said the Los Angeles coach. "I have a lot of respect for the 49ers. They're a good football team and every time we play them, it's a knock-down, drag-out street fight."

Nolan, whose team lost all six of its exhibition starts and meets New Orleans in the season-opener next Sunday, said the 49ers are only "a few steps away from being a pretty good football team."

"The defense played well against a good offensive team," he added, "and we were particularly pleased in the last two quarters with the way a lot of our younger players performed. I'm disappointed we couldn't win, but I also was encouraged. I definitely feel this is going to be a good team."

49ER QUARTERBACK

Joe Reed Suddenly Numero Uno

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

SAN FRANCISCO — He stood there before the mob of reporters and tried to explain his feelings, calmly and quietly. He was now the 49ers' No. 1 quarterback going into the start of the regular season.

Joe Reed got the promotion because Steve Spurrier was sent in pain to St. Mary's Hospital by the Los Angeles Rams who again beat the 49ers yesterday in Candlestick Park, 17-7. Spurrier had been decked by Ram linebacker Ken Geddes, the fourth sacking for Spurrier on the day he would like to forget. He is scheduled for surgery today to mend a right shoulder separation.

Reed finished out the game as quarterback and didn't particularly distinguish himself although he did guide the team to its only touchdown of the day. Now he faced the press in front of his dressing stall, the knowledge that Spurrier would be lost to the team for two months.

WANTED JOB

Reed wanted the starting job, of course, "but I hate to do it like this." He feels he is up to the task. "No matter how bad I looked today, I know I can do the job."

Reed completed only six of 16 passes for 87 yards and had two of his passes intercepted.

The 49ers, throughout this winless (0-6) exhibition season, have shown a good defense but a sluggish offense. They are having trouble moving the ball once they get deep into enemy territory. Yesterday was no exception as they scored only once after moving the ball inside the Ram 30 five times.

Reed, was asked about this. "When we get close there is a limited amount of field to work with. It's a completely different type of game. I need more work in this area."

"We definitely have good personnel and we're showing a lot of promise. But we're letting the defense down."

He said he did not expect to play any of the game yesterday since head coach Dick Nolan had planned to go with Spurrier all the way. But in the violent game of pro football, one never knows.

Reed has a full week to get mentally ready as starting quarterback against New Orleans next Sunday in the 49ers' regular season opener on the road. This time, he known what will be expected of him and psychologically it is much better to have time to get ready for a game instead of being quickly summoned off the bench.

TO CALL PLAYS

Nolan said the coaching staff will be calling most of the plays for Reed against the Saints. He also said the team would be doing a lot of practice drilling this week on situations within the 20-yard line. He must work on the team's tendency to sputter when it gets within striking range.

Defensively, the 49ers did a good job against the Rams, allowing just a touchdown and a field goal. The Rams' other touchdown came against the offense when Spurrier fumbled after getting sacked, defensive end Jack Youngblood scooping up the ball and running 54 yards for the score.

DEFENSIVE STARS

Leading the way for the 49er defense were end Tommy Hart with five tackles and three assists and linebacker Willie Harper with six tackles and six assists. Harper came out of the game with a sore right ankle and another linebacker, Skip Vanderbundt, has a sprained knee.

The 49er defense held the Rams to only 117 yards on the ground. It was one of the rare occasions which the 49ers out-gained the Rams in rushing, the Niners picking up 144 yards by running. Now that's a twist.

Marshall Wins On Two Counts

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Mike Marshall had his integrity and pride put to the ultimate test yesterday and came out a winner on both counts.

Marshall, the ace relief pitcher of the Los Angeles Dodgers, had his integrity tested by manager Walter Alston during a five-minute pregame meeting behind the locked doors of the Los Angeles clubhouse prior to the Dodgers' game with the Cincinnati Reds.

It seems Marshall had been quoted in a local paper as saying the Cincinnati Reds were a bunch of "high school athletes." Alston, concerned that such statements might rile the Reds into playing even harder, wanted to know if Marshall had made the statement. Marshall called the statement "a lie" and that was good enough for Alston. Case closed.

Marshall also got a chance to heal his pride, which had been severely wounded Saturday when the Reds pinned him with the loss after rallying from a five-run deficit to win 7-5. His opportunity came in the eighth inning when he bailed the Dodgers out of a jam and went on to preserve a 7-4 triumph that increased Los Angeles' lead over Cincinnati in the National League West to 3 1/2 games.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh increased its lead in the NL East to 2 1/2 games by whipping Montreal 8-2, New York defeated St. Louis 5-3, Philadelphia nipped Chicago 11-10, Houston edged San Diego 3-2 and Atlanta topped San Francisco 5-3.

Pirates 8, Expos 2

Jim Rooker tossed a sixhitter and Dave Parker pinch-hit a grand slam homer to give the Pirates their sixth triumph in a row and 14th in their last 16 games.

Mets 5, Cardinals 3

Wayne Garrett's three-run homer capped a four-run eighth inning that carried the Mets to victory over the Cardinals. Tom Seaver, though harassed by the base-stealing antics of Lou Brock, went the distance to gain his 10th win. Brock stole two more bases to lift his season total to 103—only one behind Maury Wills' modern record. His second theft of the game was the 738th of his career, enabling him to tie Max Carey for the NL record.

Phillies 11, Cubs 10

Willie Montanez drove in four runs with three hits to spark the Phillies' triumph over the Cubs.

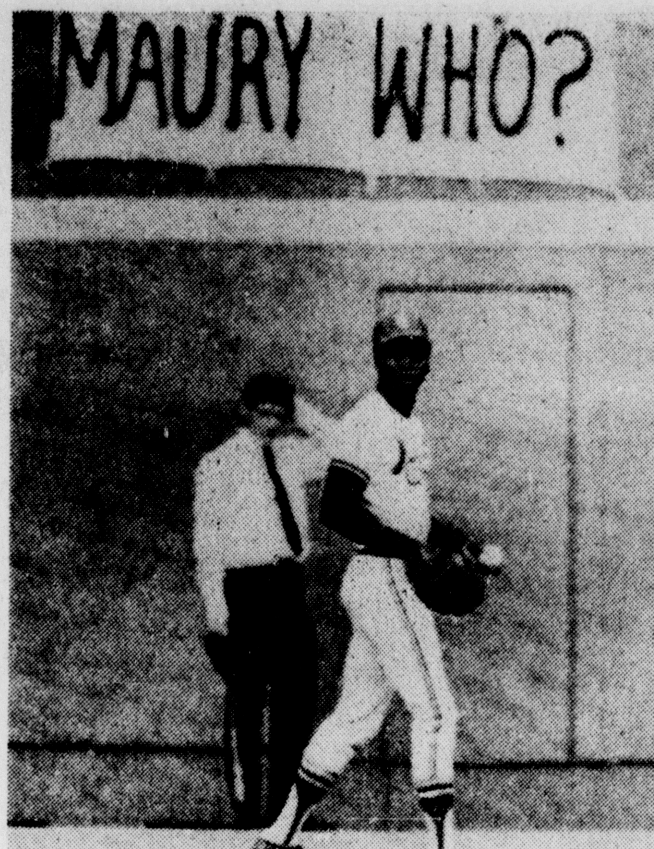

Astros 3, Padres 2

Rookie Wilbur Howard hit his first major league homer in the seventh inning to give the Astros a victory over the Padres.

American League scores: Cleveland 7, Baltimore 4; Detroit 11, New York 3; Boston 8, Milwaukee 6; Minnesota 8, Kansas City 4; Texas 5, Oakland 1, and Chicago 1, California 0.

Red Sox 8, Brewers 6 run homer, Doug Griffin hit a key double and Dick Pole pitched sparkling relief ball to lead Boston over Milwaukee.

Indians 7, Orioles 4

George Hendrick's two-run homer and solo shots by Tom McCraw and Charlie Spikes ended Baltimore's winning streak at 10 games as the Indians beat the Orioles.

White Sox 1, Angels 0

California pitcher Andy Hassler allowed only one hit — a third inning double by Lee Richard — but lost the game on a throwing error by third baseman Dave Chalk as the White Sox nipped the Angels behind the combined seven-hit pitching of Jim Kaat and Terry Forster.

Twins 8, Royals 4

Light-hitting Phil Roof crashed a grand slam homer, the first of his career, in a five-run sixth inning to lead Minnesota over the Royals.

Tigers 11, Yankees 3

Bill Freehan had four hits, including a grand slam homer, and knocked in seven runs and Al Kaline added three RBIs to lead the Tigers to victory over the Yankees.

AFTER BAD WEEKEND

Blue, Hunter Versus Royals

OAKLAND (UPI) — When the 1974 American League schedule was made up last year, it was envisioned tonight's two-night doubleheader between the Oakland A's and Kansas City Royals would be a battle for first place in the West.

For the A's, it still is. The Royals bowed out of the race a few weeks ago and are merely playing out the schedule now.

The A's held an 8 1/2 game lead last Thursday after beating the Texas Rangers, 8-0, behind Jim Hunter. But the Rangers, a better club than many had reason to expect, swept the A's Friday, Saturday and yesterday and now are 5 1/2 games back. The A's lost handily Saturday, 8-2.

But time is running out for the Rangers, whose push may have started about two weeks too late. They have 21 games left to play while the A's have 20.

While A's manager Alvin Dark is cautious, Rangers skipper Billy Martin is playing things low key, even after Ferguson Jenkins notched his 22nd victory yesterday by beating Oakland, 5-1.

"The bible says," quoted Dark, "worry about nothing but pray about everything. I'm not taking anything for granted."

"There's still a long, long way to go to catch the A's," said Martin, "but you never know."

The A's magic number for clinching their fourth straight division title stands at 16. That means any combination of A's victories and Rangers losses adding to 16 will lock up the division for Oakland.

Reggie Jackson, who had little luck hitting against Rangers pitching in the four-game weekend series, said he doesn't see the A's losing out now.

"I don't think anybody's going to beat us," he said. "The only way we can lose this division is by beating ourselves. If we had to face pitchers like Jenkins every day, though, we could lose 15 of our remaining games."

Jenkins, now 22-11 and tied with Hunter for the most victories in the majors, stopped the A's on a seven-hitter. He struck out 10 batters and went the distance for the 26th time in 36 starts.

Hunter and Vida Blue will pitch for Oakland tonight. The Royals' starters are Steve Busby and Paul Splittorf.

Landry Sidelined By Shoulder Injury

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

While National Football League teams had their last chance to "put it together" before the regular season starts next week, a pair of quarterbacks failed to keep their shoulders in similar condition.

San Francisco's No. 1 signal-caller Steve Spurrier and Detroit Lions' backup Greg Landry suffered separated shoulders on the last weekend of the exhibition season.

Spurrier suffered a separation of his passing shoulder in the third quarter of the 49ers' 17-7 loss to the powerful Los Angeles Rams. He will undergo surgery today and is expected to be sidelined for at least two months.

Landry sustained a hairline fracture of his non-passing shoulder in the fourth quarter of the Detroit Lions 21-7 win over the Cleveland Browns Saturday night. He is out indefinitely, but should be back before Spurrier.

Detroit is fortunate to have Bill Munson, an 11-year veteran, on hand. Munson started the last half of the 1973 season for the Lions after Landry underwent knee surgery following the seventh game last year and won the starting nod this year.

In other games yesterday, New England dumped Philadelphia 27-17 and Atlanta defeated Denver 20-14.

In games Saturday, Miami mauled Chicago 30-7, Minnesota crushed San Diego 42-0, New Orleans downed Houston 24-16 and Oakland drubbed the New York Jets 31-6.

Patriots 27, Eagles 17
Jim Plunkett fired one touchdown pass and engineered four other scores in rolling up 184 yards passing with 14 completions in 19 attempts as the Pats finished the exhibition season with a 4-2 mark, their best in 14 years.

Falcons 20, Broncos 14
Tom Hayes raced 62 yards with an interception at the outset of the fourth quarter for the winning touchdown as the Falcons overcame a 14-3 halftime deficit.

Dolphins 30, Bears 7
The defending world champion Dolphins, who failed to get a first down until there were nine minutes left in the second quarter, scored 10 quick points in the final 1:34 of the half as Bob Griese hit Paul Warfield on a 40-yard TD pass and Garo Yepremian added a 48-yard field goal.

Vikings 42, Chargers 0
Bob Berry passed for three touchdowns and Oscar Reed ran for three more to spur the Vikings to a romp over the Chargers.

Saints 24, Oilers 16
Wide receivers Doug Winslow and Joel Parker ran for a touchdown apiece on end around plays to spark the Saints to a come-from-behind victory over Houston.

Raiders 31, Jets 6
Rookie quarterback Larry Lawrence passed 44 yards for one touchdown and ran 19 yards to set up another as Oakland defeated the Jets.

Judge Rules In Favor Of Oilers

Combined AP & UPI

HOUSTON — A state judge today granted the Houston Oilers a temporary injunction to prevent Giant defensive lineman John Matuszak from playing with the World Football League Houston Texans.

Matuszak, the National Football League Oilers' No. 1 draft choice in 1973, jumped to the Texans two weeks ago but was prevented from playing by a restraining order.

Judge Arthur Lesher ruled to extend the restraining order to a temporary injunction. That would mean Matuszak, 6-foot-8, 282 pounds, can't play for the Texans until the contract dispute is settled.

Gold Shares Good To Have

By ROGER E. SPEAR and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. Would you advise me to continue holding gold shares now that Americans are going to be allowed to buy gold? — O.T.

A. Yes. Gold mining shares have risen at a faster pace than the price of the yellow metal itself, reflecting passage of legislation allowing U.S. citizens to own gold next year. As long as fear of inflation and loss of confidence in our monetary system continue to be rampant psychological market forces, gold will attract hoarders and speculators. One note of caution, however: "dyed-in-the-wool gold bugs," freed from restrictions on owning the actual metal rather than the shares of gold miners and producers, may cause a temporary downside reaction in these issues as the last after gold coins, bullion, futures, etc. is sold. Gold refiners, such as Englehard Minerals & Chemicals (NYSE), and private minters, such as Franklin Mint (NYSE), should also be beneficiaries of this expected emotional buying spree. And, judging from the glut of advertisements offering gold seminars, market letters, price quotations and coins, interest in gold is avid.

Q. I would like to know what you think of Pamida, Inc. (NYSE) for long-term growth. — R.S.

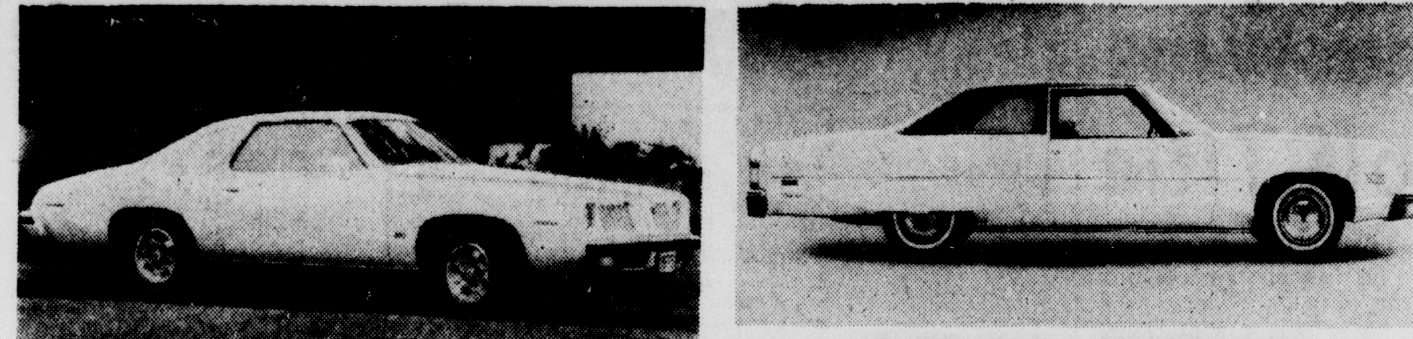

A. Pamida's chain of 168 discount stores are located in the northern central states, including your own, which probably gives you some insight into their fast-growing operation. Sales have quadrupled in the past five years and earnings have more than tripled. Financially, this retailer appears to be in a better position than several of the giants in the field. In the first quarter through April, sales and income moved up about 17 per cent each. Full year results are difficult to project in view of the possible effects of the recent drought on farm incomes in the chain's service area. While the shares, now off 85 per cent from the 1972 high, are trading at only 5 times last year's earnings, current market apathy to discounters may hamper recovery. Therefore, I would delay purchase of this speculative issue until general market conditions improve.

Schooner May Have A Comeback

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sailing schooner, which down to World War I carried a substantial part of the world's commerce, may stage a comeback because of the high price of bunker oil.

An Australia company has begun building a four master, the first big cargo schooner to be built anywhere for half a century. And in the current issue of Oceans magazine, a respected scientific journal, naval architect Hugh G. Lawrence presents a design for a modern three-masted schooner 220 feet long to carry 1,600 tons of cargo.

Lawrence argues if schooners could capture only 5 to 10 per cent of the freight carried on the oceans and the Great Lakes, building and operating them would be a paying proposition in this day of high priced fuel.

The schooner Lawrence envisions is about twice as long and four times as big in tonnage as most of the coastal and lake schooners at the turn of this century, but she would be vastly smaller than some of the six and seven masters then used in the lumber trade from the Pacific northwest to the east coast and Europe.

She would fly 16,000 square feet of dacron canvas in six sails, which would be hauled up and down by powered winches. Rarely would any of her crew have to go aloft — only in case of damage in the rigging.

She would differ from traditional schooners also in that all her sails would be jib-headed or triangular instead of trapezoid in shape. That means there would be no heavy gaff spars to be raised aloft and lowered. Her six sails would include two large triangles set on booms abaft the main and mizzen masts, two jibs set on the bowsprit, a third jib set on deck ahead of the mainmast and a big triangular wishbone sail tracked to the upper half of the foremast.

This is an extremely simple rig but Lawrence argues that such a ship would go to windward well and be very fast going down wind. Over all, she could be faster with a favorable wind than a steamship of the same size and cargo capacity. Naturally, she would have an auxiliary engine to move her in confined waters and generate electric power for the winches and other necessary machinery.

Many schemes for reviving working sail in recent years have concerned the square rigger, for example the Dynaship with revolving tower mast is designed by the German naval architect, Wilhelm Proelss. But Lawrence says the Dynaship is too complicated an idea. Other naval architects say it wouldn't be possible to build a Dynaship or any other square rigger big enough today to pay her way.

Carrying either bulk or miscellaneous cargo on coastal routes or the shorter transoceanic routes, a big schooner could be operated much more cheaply than a steam or motor ship, Lawrence says. The steamship must attain large economies of scale in operation. This is so true that the thousands of small tramp steamers that once plied the seas were being driven to the scrapyard even before the oil exporting countries raised the price of bunker oil so high.

The German U-boat fleet sank schooners by the hundreds in World War I but the big cause of their disappearance was cheap coal and oil. Now high priced oil may bring them back.

Recession Fears Send Stocks Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — Recessionary fears carried prices sharply lower today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Adding to Wall Street's jitters, the Ford administration drew widespread criticism following the President's decision to pardon former President Richard M. Nixon.

The gold issues were among the day's biggest losers. James Dines, a New York broker active in gold stocks, said the rush to sell was prompted by a recommendation to this effect by gold broker George Schaefer of Indianapolis. ASA Ltd., Campbell Red Lake and Dome Mines plunged between 7 and 11 points during the day.

All major stock groups weakened with the blue chips, glamor and oils attracting a selling wave.

Among the blue chips, Exxon dropped more than a point. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries said it will consider a 14 per cent boost in prices at a meeting in Vienna Thursday.

In the glamor sector, Polaroid weakened.

Magnavox was one of the few gainers. The company voted to suspend its quarterly dividend policy indefinitely. North American Philips last week sweetened its bid for all the outstanding shares of Magnavox.
